HOOVER DRAWS NEW PROGRAM FOR RECOVERY

Outlines Nine Projects of Rehabilitation Now Under Way.

SEEKS TO RESTORE RURAL PURCHASING

Calls Bonus Army Rioting Challenge to Authority of Government.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN

President Hoover turned his attention again yesterday to the labors of economic rehabilitation, outlining a series of nine specific projects already under way looking toward the stimulation of employment, the restoration of rural purchasing power and the reestablishment of normal credit functions for the service of industry and commerce.

The summary of the nine-point program, which was made public at the President's regular Friday press conference, confirmed officially for the first time that a broad-gauge project for the clearance and modernization of city slum areas was under consideration as a part of the new program of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Coordinating Aid to Farmers.

Other projects mentioned as now under way or in the stage of preliminary conferences included establishment of a board of engineers to stimulate development of the self-liquidating works program contemplated in the new reconstruction act; coordination of all agricultural aids and credits now available in various branches of the Government and new methods for financing agricultural products into the channels of consumption. As aids to industry, the program seeks to stimulate sound production credits, expand railway buying, and spread employment through the reduction of working hours. Prompt establishment of the new home loan banking system is contemplated as a direct aid to construction.

"When this program is more fully developed," the President said, "I shall confer with the business and industrial committees created in each Federal Reserve District, and other groups in the country that are primarily interested, with a view to establishing a united and concerted action on a broad front throughout the country."

Challenge to Government Seen.

Immediately before outlining the new reconstruction program the Chief Executive alluded to Thursday's rioting of bonus marchers as "a challenge to the authority of the United States Government" which had been met "swiftly and firmly."

"After months of patient indulgence," this statement continued, "the Government met overt lawlessness as it always must be met if the cherished processes of self-government are to be preserved. We can not tolerate the abuse of constitutional rights by those who would destroy all government, no matter who they may be. Government can not be coerced by mob rule."

After expressing the hope that agitators responsible for Thursday's violence against the police might be brought to trial speedily in the courts, the President linked the preservation of order with the national recovery program.

"Order and civil tranquillity are the first requisites in the great task of economic reconstruction to which our whole people now are devoting their heroic and noble energies," he said. "This national effort must not be

Legion Told to Expect Changed Public Attitude

Chase City, Va., July 29 (A.P.).—Adam T. Finch, commander of the Virginia department of the American Legion today called upon all veterans to subordinate themselves "to the interest of the Nation, and to all of its citizens."

"Loyal and conscientious legionnaires might just as well get ready for a very different attitude on the part of the public than we have had in the past ten years," he said in a signed statement for the Virginia Legionnaire, the department organ.

House Member Sued By Candidate for Libel

Johnson City, Tenn., July 29 (A.P.).—B. Carroll Reece, a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the First Tennessee District, filed libel suits for $100,000 damages in Federal court here today against Representative O. B. Lovette and three east Tennessee newspapers.

The suits charge "Lovette was directly responsible" for libelous matter recently published by the newspapers concerning Reece, but did not specify it.

Gunmen Slay 3 Volpe Brothers, Gang Czars

Waiter Also Is Shot When Carload of Rival Racketeers Riddle Cafe in Pittsburgh; Fourth of Family in Jail.

Pittsburgh, July 29 (A.P.).—The guns of gangland brought death today to three czars of the underworld—Johnny, Jim and Arthur Volpe.

The three brothers, long notorious for their bootlegging activities in the Pittsburgh district, were shot down in a Wylie avenue coffee shop by a trio of imported gunmen.

As the brothers lounged in the restaurant—one eating a 1 p. m. breakfast and the other two making idle conversation at the cigar counter—the three slayers entered and, without warning, poured a withering fire into their quarry.

Jim and Arthur died instantly with slugs in their heads. Johnny, shot in the chest near the heart, struggled through the door to the street. Another shot rang out and he collapsed in the gutter.

A priest, passing by, hurried to the fallen bootlegger's side and administered extreme unction as he gasped his last breath.

In the coffee shop, scene of an underworld bombing three years ago, police found Santo Bizzano, a waiter, crouched behind a counter, mumbling almost incoherently:

"I don't wanna be shot! I don't wanna be shot!"

But he had been shot—in the body—by one of the bullets intended for the Volpes. Police sent him to a hospital. His condition is not serious. Later he was taken to detective headquarters for questioning.

A moment after the staccato gunshots echoed through the street the three killers dashed out, leaped into a waiting car at the curb and sped

VON PAPEN ASSAILS VERSAILLES TREATY

Calls It Cause of Germany's Distress in Transatlantic Broadcast.

Berlin, July 29 (A.P.).—Chancellor Franz von Papen, whose cabinet is made up of men powerful in the junker and military caste of the old imperial government, assured the United States in a transatlantic broadcast tonight that neither he nor his ministers were maneuvering for a German dictatorship.

His address, in which he assailed the Versailles Treaty, took on added significance because of two factors. At home, Germany is embroiled in the campaign for the Reichstag elections Sunday, and abroad she is involved in a new difference with France.

A few hours before the chancellor went on the air his foreign minister, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, told the French Ambassador that when Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher threatened the other day to arm Germany if the other nations did not disarm, he spoke for every member of the German cabinet and for the whole German nation.

The Treaty of Versailles limits Germany's armed forces to the number needed to preserve interior order.

The Von Papen radio speech, sponsored by the International Radio Forum founded by Ira Nelson Morris, American diplomat, was in English, a language the chancellor learned the American way when he served the old imperial government at Washington.

The Treaty of Versailles, Lieut. Col. von Papen said, is the main cause of the Fatherland's distress; it fosters radicalism both of the right and of the left.

Referring to the political events of the last few weeks the chancellor said that 'the outside world does not quite realize that Germany was endangered by an aspect of civil war due to extremist tension."

The Communists, he continued, had built powerful fighting units throughout Prussia and the recent disorders were due mainly to their illegal activities, which no government could continue to tolerate without relinquishing its own authority.

Foreign Minister von Neurath's statement to French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet was an answer to a protest by the ambassador about a

Louis Germain-Martin May Be Envoy to U. S.

Paris, July 29 (A.P.).—Appointment of Louis Germain-Martin as Ambassador to the United States during the discussion of war debts which probably will take place in the near future is being discussed by government officials, it was reported today in an informed quarter.

The Socialist newspaper Le Populaire said Premier Herriot had considered the appointment, but that when M. Germain-Martin was asked about it he said he had not requested the post nor had he been approached regarding it.

Marriage Unites Two Famous British Fliers

London, July 29 (A.P.).—Miss Amy Johnson, who was made a dame commander of the British Empire after her solo flight to Australia two years ago, was married today in St. George's Church in Hanover Square to J. A. Mollison, another of England's most famous long distance fliers.

On August 7 Mollison plans to attempt a transatlantic flight to the United States. Before they were married Miss Johnson said she wanted to go with him, but since then they have not announced whether they will make that flight together.

HEBERT IS MANAGER FOR HOOVER IN EAST

Jeremiah Milbank Named to Raise Money in Region for Campaign.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—On the shoulders of a Rhode Island senator and a New York banker the Republican party today placed the responsibility of leading the Eastern battle for Herbert Hoover.

Felix Hebert, 58-year-old lawyer, who is serving his first term in the Senate, will be Eastern campaign manager.

Jeremiah Milbank, 45-year-old Wall street financier, will have the job of raising the money for the campaign fight in the twelve Middle Atlantic and Northeastern States.

With these two appointments Everett Sanders, national chairman, laid the groundwork for a ballot drive that will begin to get up steam next week and will reach its full speed in September.

Meantime, James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, and Louis Howe, Gov. Roosevelt's political secretary, went to Albany to hold what was described as an exceedingly important conference with the presidential nominee over his personal campaign activities.

There have been suggestions Roosevelt make a wide swing around the country, speaking in a great number of States. On the contrary, he has been urged to limit his address to a few important centers. Which plan he will follow may be decided at the conference.

Before he starts out on his presidential drive, Roosevelt has one prime duty—a decision as to whether James J. Walker shall continue as Mayor of New York City. The governor studied in silence during the day the reply Walker made to charges on which his removal is demanded.

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of James G. Blaine, jr., of New York City, as treasurer of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, was announced yesterday by Senator Hatfield, of West Virginia, the chairman.

Blaine, son of the late James G. Blaine, of Maine, veteran Republican leader of a generation ago, is president of the Marine Midland Trust Co., of New York.

Two Navy Fliers Missing in Crash

Three Rescued as Flying Boat Falls Into Sea Near San Diego.

San Diego, Calif., July 29 (A.P.).—Two Navy fliers were missing and three were rescued after a Navy flying boat crashed at sea 20 miles north of Del Mar today. The missing are Lieut. Dick B. Downer, pilot, and John F. Hogan, aviation pilot, second class.

Lieut. Paul B. Tuze, flying another ship of the same squadron, alighted and rescued others in the plane. They were John P. McDonald, aviation machinist's mate, first class; Howard F. Mears, aviation pilot, first class, and Claude A. Manley, radio man, second class.

It was the second to occur in this area within 24 hours to the fleet of flying boats sent here this year from Panama. Two men were killed yesterday and four hurt when a plane struck the cutter Tamarca.

Canada to Float Loan For Idle and Railroad

Ottawa, Ont., July 29 (U.P.).—A public loan of from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000 will be floated by the Canadian government this fall to meet the costs of unemployed relief and the prospective deficit of the Canadian National Railway, the Toronto Mail and Empire will say tomorrow.

PRIVATE TRADE TREATIES SEEN FOR DOMINIONS

Yielding of Preference Program by Empire Looms at Ottawa.

IS DUE PARTIALLY TO LOW TARIFF PROMISE

National Feeling of South Africa, Free State and India Also Factor.

Ottawa, July 29 (A.P.).—Observers at the imperial economic conference are beginning to think that the broad program of Empire preference, so widely discussed before the conference began, may give place to a series of independent trade agreements among the Dominions.

Those who think so, cited these three developments:

1. Stanley Baldwin's statement yesterday in which he asked the Dominions to remember their favorable trade balance with the United Kingdom when they asked for further advantages, and in which he said that Great Britain expects to keep her tariffs low enough so her industries can compete on a fair basis with those of the Dominions.

Statement of Premier's Son.

2. The revelation of strong Nationalist feeling by India, South Africa and the Irish Free State, none of which will permit the conference to forget that they consider themselves not integral parts of the British Empire, but independent nations affiliated with it.

3. The continuing progress of negotiations looking toward bilateral trade agreements as contrasted with official silence on the status of the empire unity project.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of the British premier, who is here as a spokesman to the British press, said today the United Kingdom has made no definite decision on any dominion request for preference.

The work of the conference apparently has been toward private trade treaties between various delegations since the delegates were informed that Great Britain can offer little assistance to agricultural commodities of which the empire produces a surplus.

Free Exchange of Goods.

These bilateral negotiations have been of such character that they would be amenable to subsequent empire unity, but they are not considered to fit in with any workable scheme of interimperial trade.

The agreements thus far do not suggest protective tariffs against goods coming from other countries of the commonwealth, and in that respect they are considered to coincide with the principle with the freest possible exchange of goods between the various parts of the empire.

But they are not interpreted as equalizing the irremovable natural disadvantages which one empire nation might experience in the markets of another.

Canada has already trade pacts with Australia and New Zealand.

Chilean Government Recognized by Cuba

Havana, July 29 (A.P.).—Cuba extended recognition today to the provisional government of Chile.

STRAGGLERS OF BONUS ARMY ARRESTED IN RAIDS ON PARKS; LAST OF CAMPS IS BURNED

Text of Hoover's Letter To District Commission

The text of President Hoover's letter to Commissioner Reichelderfer is as follows:

Honorable Luther H. Reichelderfer, Commissioner, District of Columbia, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Mr. Commissioner: In response to your information that the police of the District were overwhelmed by an organized attack by several thousand men, and were unable to maintain law and order, I complied with your request for aid from the Army to the police. It is a matter of satisfaction that, after the arrival of this assistance, the mobs which were defying the municipal government were dissolved without the firing of a shot or the loss of a life.

I wish to call attention of the District Commissioners to the fact that martial law has not been declared; that responsibility for order still rests upon your commission and the police. The civil government of Washington must function uninterrupted. The Commissioners, through their own powers, should now deal with this question decisively.

It is the duty of the authorities of the District to at once find the instigators of this attack on the police and bring them to justice. It is obvious that, after the departure of the majority of the veterans, subversive influences obtained control of the men remaining in the District, a large part of whom were not veterans, secured repudiation of their elected leaders and inaugurated and organized this attack.

They were undoubtedly led to believe that the civil authorities could be intimidated with impunity because of attempts to conciliate by lax enforcement of city ordinances and laws in many directions. I shall expect the police to strictly enforce every ordinance of the District in every part of the city. I wish every violator of the law to be instantly arrested and prosecuted under due process of law.

I have requested the law enforcement agencies of the Federal Government to cooperate with the District authorities to this end.

There is no group, no matter what its origin, that can be allowed either to violate the laws of this city or to intimidate the Government.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT HOOVER.

CLERKS DENIED PAID MILITARY FURLOUGH

Policy in Postoffice Runs Counter to Ruling Laid Down by McCarl.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Postoffice Department is refusing all applications for military leave with pay for national guard, citizens or reserve officers training encampments, it was learned last night on good authority.

The policy is in direct conflict with a ruling by Comptroller Genera. J. R. McCarl. He held, in effect, paid military leave is mandatory under the economy act.

As a result, postoffice employes lawfully attending military encampments have only to file claim for their pay with the Comptroller General when they return. The Post was informed.

No other department has followed the Postoffice lead, so far as could be determined last night. Some few employes, it was said, were granted military leave with pay by the Postmaster General before the departmental order was put into effect.

Lorel N. Morgan, deputy first assistant and chief clerk of the Postoffice Department, said the military leave restriction was forced by staff shortages resulting from the economy act.

He said departmental employes might still attend encampments during their payless furlough. Rural carriers and some postmasters were not deprived of annual leave and they could go then, he said.

Postoffice employes enlisted in the District National Guard and in local reserve units, which will leave next

STATE DEPARTMENT STUDIES PARLEY BID

Formal Invitation Received for World Financial Conference.

The State Department yesterday received an invitation to the projected European conference on world economic problems, suggested by the recently adjourned reparations conference at Lausanne.

Without comment upon the invitation, officials indicated that the matter was under consideration. The text of the communication was not made public, nor was there any indication that the United States had altered its policy on war debts, reparations and disarmament since such a conference was originally suggested in London several months ago.

If anything has happened in Europe recently to make American participation in a world economic conference more probable today than four months ago, State Department officials have given no hint of it during the last two weeks.

Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, suggested a similar conference a week ago, but told his radio audience at the time that he was speaking only for himself.

Several days later, Senator Watson, the Republican leader, demanded effective disarmament in Europe rather than further international circumlocutions on a world economy all but prostrated by the burdens of excessive military establishments.

The State Department did not say whether the invitation came from Lausanne, Geneva, Paris or London.

Close Friend Denies Hoover Made and Lost Big Sums

Dow-Jones Ticker Service Quotes Edgar Rickard, Alleged Manager of President's Private Business Matters, as Saying Reports Are Untrue.

New York, July 29.—A denial that Herbert Hoover made large sums of money before 1914 and that his fortune has dwindled through unfortunate investments in recent years was carried today by the Dow-Jones ticker service.

The denial was made by Edgar Rickard, described by the service as a close friend of Mr. Hoover who has handled his personal accounts for eleven years.

Rickard, a New York business man, is quoted as saying "that since Mr. Hoover became Secretary of Commerce "I have, as a matter of convenience to him, looked after his private accounts in my own office. I know all about them.

"I can say at once that the assertion that the President has had or has oil investments in foreign countries is absolutely without foundation. During this whole period and some time before he has not had a dime in any kind of business in any foreign country.

"I can say further that since he became Secretary of Commerce the President has not purchased or sold a single share of stock of any corporation through any public exchange or otherwise.

"As to the statement that the President made large sums of money before 1914 and has subsequently lost large sums in speculative enterprises, both statements are untrue. He never made anything like the sums reported in many quarters nor has he ever had such cases."

When Mr. Hoover became Secretary of Commerce, the statement says, he closed out his investment in general business and invested in bonds, and since then he has had no business transactions of any kind.

"Since he became Secretary of Commerce," Rickard says, "the President has not purchased or sold a single share of stock of any corporation. As a matter of fact, except for some minor interests of long and sentimental standing he has no stocks of any kind."

War Preparations Rushed by Bolivia

Men and Munitions Move Toward Paraguay in Chaco Dispute.

Arica, Chile, July 29 (U.P.).—Private uncensored reports from La Paz, Bolivia, today said martial law had been decreed and that the country was given over to preparations for war. Men, munitions, planes and tanks are moving steadily toward the eastern frontier where fighting between Paraguayan and Bolivian soldiers has already occurred. A constant flow of gifts and money is being received by the government to finance mobilization.

Laquiaca, Argentine-Bolivian Frontier, July 29 (U.P.).—Bolivia is continuing preparations for military action in the disputed Chaco territory, and the general impression here is the nation may launch a general attack against Paraguay at any moment.

Twenty-seven trucks, each carrying 25 fully armed Bolivian soldiers, passed through Villazon, near here, yesterday en route to Villamontes, the Bolivian concentration camp for the Chaco area. The international train from Buenos Aires to La Paz arrived here today carrying many Bolivians hurrying home to enlist in the army.

Soldiers Are Withdrawn as Hoover Holds Crisis Met Swiftly and Firmly.

VETERANS ON LONG TREK TO HAVEN IN JOHNSTOWN

Waters Orders All to Be Out of City By Noon Today; 50 Radicals Are Captured at Meeting.

A drive against hundreds of veterans who sought outdoor quarters in the Capital's parks was undertaken early today by 100 Metropolitan and United States Park policemen in a resumption of the offensive against the bonus army.

For the first time within 36 hours, and hard upon the virtual withdrawal of Federal troops from the evacuation onset, the police began action and rounded up about 300 veterans who were sleeping in the parks.

After the men were routed out of the parks, they were concentrated in the park at Judiciary Square, opposite police headquarters. There they were carefully inspected by five immigration officers and those who appeared to be aliens were held for investigation and possible deportation. The others were loaded into trucks to be rushed to the District line and through Maryland. Every third policeman in the round-up carried tear gas bombs in his belt.

The Capital police took up the eviction of the veterans after the troops, in a final sortie, had obliterated the vestiges of the encampments that dotted the downtown section and left them in ruins.

"All the men arrested this morning," said Inspector Ernest W. Brown, in charge of the police activity, "will be investigated. If they are stragglers of the bonus army or not bona fide residents of the District, they will be formed into groups and marched out of the District."

Aiding Inspector Brown and his detail were 30 men from the United States Park police under Capt. P. J. Carroll. Ten patrol wagons were pressed into action as the police combed through the parks in the downtown section, arresting all vagrants.

Even as the troops, bristling with arms, were applying the torch to remaining billets, the country was told by President Hoover that "the challenge to Government authority had been met swiftly and firmly."

In the wake of the army of veterans who were scurrying over the hills of Maryland to a haven in Johnstown, Pa., the judicial authority of the Capital unleashed the machinery of the law, at the behest of the Chief Executive, to ferret out those responsible for attack against the Government.

Police Surround Parks.

In the activities early today police surrounded each park in the downtown section and squads were sent to rout the men from their out-door billeting places. They were herded into the arms of the police cordon and placed in patrol wagons which delivered them at the doors of the police precinct stations.

The clean-up started soon after midnight, when the combined police details met at Metropolitan Police Headquarters, where Inspector Brown and Capt. Helm laid plans for the raids.

At 1:30 this morning more than 200 had been caught in the net spread by police.

All Must Leave by Noon.

Every veteran was ordered by Commander in Chief Walter W. Waters to be out of the Capital by noon today. He and his staff will remain here to perfect an organization of "Khaki Shirts" to be formed on the "strictest American lines."

Watching the last of the billets—those at Thirteenth and D streets southwest—being eradicated by flames set by his troops, Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles announced, "Our work is done. This is our last objective." Dusk settled over the Capital as the helmeted cavalry and clattering tanks moved over the Highway Bridge to Fort Myer.

After a telephone conversation with Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, Gen. Miles announced that the Police Department today would assume control over the

50 SEIZED AS REDS FACE DEPORTATION

Fifty men arrested yesterday at a Communist meeting at Fifth street and Virginia avenue southeast were questioned by immigration authorities and fifteen of the group may be deported, police said. A further round-up of radicals was started early this morning and all of those arrested will be quizzed by immigration officials.

Yesterday's meeting, held in an abandoned building, had voted to picket the White House at 11:30 a. m. Monday, when members of the Crime Prevention Bureau broke up the gathering.

Led by Inspector Ogden T. Davis, Capt. Jeremiah Sullivan and Detective Sergt. Howard Ogle, police marched 150 of the group, who claimed to be bonus veterans, into Maryland, where they were met by State troopers. The men arrested were said to be the leaders of the meeting.

Among those arrested was James William Ford, 38, colored candidate for vice president on the Communist ticket. The bonus marchers at the meeting were members of John Pace's "left wing" contingent.

Those arrested and facing deportation are: Stephen Borowitz, 36, Austrian, of Detroit; Harrison Reeves, 43, Detroit; Joseph Hirsch, 35, Roumanian, New York; Havanes Mackloodian, 47, Asiatic, Chicago; Walter Gulowski, 47, Pole, Toledo; John Tsotsos, 43, Greek, Chicago; Sedor Laschuk, 36, Pole, Chicago; Christos Kapanadaes, 43, Greek, Detroit; Waladis Mockawica, 40, Russian, Cleveland; Paul Kirtsch, 37, German, Hoboken; John Domnarin, 37, Roumanian, Detroit; Jacob Goldwasser, 40, Pole, New York; Giovanni Benedetti, 36, Italian, gave no city, and Thomas Plunkett, 38, colored, New York.

Emmanuel Levin, of New York City, is another of the Communist leaders arrested at the meeting.

Gen. Glassford Forgoes Police Pay Since July 1

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, has received no pay for his services to the District since July 1, he said yesterday.

Fear that his Army retirement pay will be discontinued prompted him to refuse further compensation for his duties as chief of police, Gen. Glassford explained. A provision in the economy act stipulates that a retired Army officer may not receive Government pay from a civilian post and the Army pension, if the combined sum totals more than $3,000.

NATION'S EDITORIALS INDORSE EVACUATION

President's Firm Action in B. E. F. Disorder Lauded Throughout Land.

(Associated Press.)

Newspaper editorial comment on the Washington bonus army evacuation follows:

Brownsville (Tex.) Herald—"Congressmen such as Wright Patman, of Texas, who voiced aloud their inciting pleas for a cash bonus they knew the country was financially unable to pay, should shudder as they realize that a human life has been placed on the altar of their political ambitions."

Emporia (Kans.) Gazette.—"The problems of this Nation can not be solved by collecting mobs in Washington. There is no question of the patriotism or the sincerity of the boys, but they picked a bad way to urge what was at best a dubious cause. The country is relieved to know that there is at the helm of this Nation, in this year of crisis, a hand which has been patient and which can be firm."

Boston Traveler—"The situation at Washington has gone beyond a question of whether veterans of the World War should be given compensation now or later. Whatever the merits of the bonus agitation, the people of this country will not stand for violence."

New York Times—"* * * Now that the latent spirit of insolent lawlessness has manifested itself in overt acts, the country should demand that the whole affair be thoroughly cleaned up, the veterans dispersed as speedily as may be and Americans be no longer called upon to witness an insubordinate body of men asserting at the National Capital that they are above the people as a whole and more powerful than the Government itself."

Philadelphia Inquirer: "* * * the disorders of yesterday are serious, and the Government has acted properly in taking them in hand at once * * *. It would be futile to place the whole blame on the straggling army of homeless and hungry men. The agitators who have misled them, the politicians who have yielded to impossible demands for fear of the consequences to themselves—these are much more to blame."

St. Paul Pioneer Press: "If the course (of eviction) so chosen is to be continued, the need for cool heads and firm hands will be even greater than before. But it would seem wiser * * * to let the veterans stay until they are tired of their fruitless mission than to invite the violence which may easily attend forceful eviction."

Baltimore Evening Sun—"Panic, especially panic in high places, is usually contagious. It may be that after the demonstration of yesterday cooler heads will prevail, but it is all too likely that the disease will spread in its virulence. In that event, as in yesterday's instance, reason will depart; passion will masquerade as intelligence and vehemence as conviction."

Louisville Times—"Grover Cleveland would have employed troops in a similar situation, and it would be disturbing to believe that any President of the United States would hesitate to use troops to compel evacuation of Federal buildings, or areas, occupied by a disorderly mob, regardless of the classification of members of the mob as veterans, reds, criminals or what not."

Lewiston (Me.) Sun—"Don't damn those trouble-makers in Washington with the shameful title of Communist—all those no-better-than-they-ought-to-be bonus seekers. All the wrong they have done the Republic is petty indeed compared with the wrong inflicted * * * by President Hoover and the Democratic-Republican Congress."

Jacksonville (Fla.) Journal—"Sympathy is not lacking for these unfortunate veterans, but their action has not been approved by the public. They have a real grievance against the Government and who has not? * * * If the millions who are as much in need as these veterans should employ the same method, this whole Nation would be thrown into a condition of chaos—and nobody would be helped. * * * Whether official Washington handled the situation with the best of tact is debatable."

Statement of President On Economic Recovery

The text of the President's statement on economic recovery is as follows:

Some erroneous speculation has taken place with regard to conferences which have been held during the past two weeks in respect to organizing concerted action along the front of economic recovery. Such conferences have been held by myself, the Secretaries of the Treasury and of Commerce, the heads of the Reconstruction Corporation, Federal Reserve Board and other Government officials together with representative groups in the country. The activities comprise:

1. The organization of the new powers granted the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in respect to self-liquidating works for which $1,500,000,000 is available are being coordinated with other Government agencies. An engineer of standing will be delegated by the Army Engineer Corps as chairman of the board of outstanding engineers to advise the corporation in respect to these works with view to the most expeditious action in stimulating employment by starting of the work and the placing of orders for material.

2. Stimulation of a movement for slum clearance and replacement under the reconstruction act is being given immediate examination with view to early expansion of employment through such programs of modernization.

3. In order to effectively make adequate provision for live stock and feeder loans, I have requested Commissioner Bestor, of the Farm Loan Board, which has administration of the Intermediate Credit Banks; the Secretary of Agriculture, who has some special powers from Congress, and the Federal Farm Board, which has already entered largely into this field, to place themselves at the disposal of the Reconstruction Corporation so as to develop a coordinated program to solve these and other agricultural questions under the leadership of the corporation.

4. The Reconstruction Corporation is devoting particular attention under its new powers to the possibilities of financing the movement of agricultural commodities into consumption with view to stimulating demands through restoration of orderly marketing. We are discussing the possible supplement of such efforts by private agencies.

5. We have also taken up the subject of organized coordination of the wider expansion of credit facilities to business and industry through business, the banks and the Federal Reserve Banks, particularly for the purpose of supplying full credit for production where consumption of goods is assured and thus materially expand employment which has been hampered by dislocation of the credit machinery.

6. Preliminary conferences have taken place with some of the railway leaders with a view to their developing programs for increased repair and maintenance in cooperation with the agencies of the Government for the purpose of expanding railway employment and for expansion in orders for railway supplies and equipment, which would also be immediately reflected in increased employment in the supply and steel industries.

7. I am proceeding as rapidly as possible with the selection of the directors of the Home Loan Bank Board, and have already under discussion methods by cooperation of this institution with the Reconstruction Corporation and other agencies of the Government to secure the fullest effect in assistance to home owners under mortgage duress and expansion of home building in localities where there is a present shortage.

8. I have under discussion with various agencies the question of a movement to further spread existing employment through reduction of work hours.

9. Other avenues of cooperation between the Government in aid to private and public agencies are under preliminary consideration.

When this program is more fully developed I shall confer with the "business and industrial" committees created in each Federal Reserve District and other groups in the country that are primarily interested, with view to establishing united and concerted action on a broad front throughout the country.

LAST CAMP OF BONUS ARMY BURNED BY FEDERAL TROOPS

areas from which his troops had evacuated the ragged bonus army.

A battalion of infantrymen from Fort Washington were bivouacked last night in the Federal Trade Commission Building at Twenty-first street and Constitution avenue. They will probably be dispatched to their encampment today.

"The military phases of the disorders are over," said Maj. Gen. V. H. Moseley, deputy chief of staff. "It is now a job for the District of Columbi police force. Of course the troops will continue to lend a hand where the police need assistance. But the task is to keep the campers from drifting back into the city and prevent crowds from congregating."

Like Secretary of War Hurley and Chief of Staff Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Moseley emphasized that after the Army took charge of the situation not a life was lost.

50 Radicals Arrested.

Pursuant to the President's orders to find those responsible for the disorders a group of 50 radical members of the army, to whom the fatal outbreaks were attributed by Gen. Glassford, were arrested after a meeting at Fifth street and Virginia avenue southeast.

Close to 100 of the men were herded into formation and marched directly out of town, to join the general exodus of the veterans from the city.

The American Red Cross formally offered to transport all women and children of the bonus army to their homes; but hundreds of them were already on their way.

The final movement against the veterans started at 3:30 o'clock and continued until 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the same tactics that marked the violent eviction of the day before were pursued by the troops.

From Anacostia, a detachment of 500 men, including 200 Infantrymen from Fort Washington and 300 Cavalrymen from Fort Myer, set fire to the cantonment bounded by Maryland and Missouri avenues, Second and Third streets southwest.

After surrounding the block and putting flight to a few stragglers of the army, the Infantrymen set fire to a score of rude huts, which had been untouched in the onsets of Thursday.

Soon the entire area was in flames, and fire engines drawn to the scene to prevent spread of the flames to private property, drew thousands of Government clerks to the location. These were held in check by extra details of policement summoned by two riot calls.

Only one casualty was reported during the day. Corporal Fred Williams, Troop F of the Third Cavalry, was burned about the face and back when tear gas bombs he was carrying were discharged accidentally. He was taken to Emergency Hospital.

Ritchie Provides Trucks.

Fanned by a slight breeze, the flames soon leveled the flimsy structures as gusts of smoke were wafted toward the dome of the Capitol a few blocks away. Leaving some infantry to complete the work of destruction, the cavalry moved down Maryland avenue to Thirteenth and B streets southwest, where they destroyed a few shacks, near the site of the billets once occupied by the radical wing of the army.

Then they moved to Thirteenth and D streets where several small shacks were ignited, as the fire department again stood vigil against the spread of the flames to private property.

The veterans who took to the highways of Maryland, were assisted on their way by trucks placed outside the District limits by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. One group of 200 veterans who sought haven for the night in Virginia were escorted back into Washington and marched through the District and into Maryland behind two American flags.

Detachments of steel-helmeted soldiers stood sentinel last night over the ruins of the camps. Demolition of the billets was complete. In Anacostia, the greatest number of troops was concentrated to prevent the return of the veterans over the river bridges.

Camp Bartlett, which was expected to be the refuge of the bonus army, because it is privately owned, was virtually deserted last night. Its inhabitants had joined the straggling retreat toward Pennsylvania.

The offer of the Red Cross to provide transportation for the women and children was made by James L. Fieser, who said it would "greatly reduce discomfort and suffering."

The radical group that was marched from the city yesterday was met by Maryland State policemen, and they were moved toward Bladensburg. After a rest they mounted State trucks which transported them toward the Pennsylvania line.

Many of the departing veterans had words of praise for Gen. Glassford, who earlier in the day had disclaimed responsibility for calling out the troops.

No time was lost by Justice Oscar R. Luhring in placing the entire episode of the disorders before the grand jury. He instructed the jurors to undertake an immediate investigation of "these events with a view to bringing to justice those responsible for this violence and those inciting it as well as those who took part in acts of violence."

Condition of Wounded.

Eric Carlson, of Oakland, Calif., a veteran shot in the encounter with police, remained in serious condition in the hospital. Patrolman Edgar E. Scott, whose skull was fractured when struck by a brick, was also in critical condition at Emergency Hospital.

The food problem was the greatest concern of the departing veterans. Commander in Chief Waters designated R. B. Ellison, national contact officer of the retreating army, to establish food stations along the route to Johnstown, Pa.

Doak E. Carter, chief of staff of the army, was sent ahead to the Pennsylvania city to establish headquarters. The men say they will reassemble their ranks there and return to the Capital.

The Johnstown mayor, Eddie McCloskey, suffered a change of heart after extending an invitation to the bonus army to make its headquarters in that city. The Associated Press reports that he explained to the citizens of that city that the stragglers would be advised to go directly to their homes.

"For the present," Doak Carter said, "the national headquarters will remain in Washington. We will have field headquarters here. We intend to press the organization of the 'khaki shirts.' Within a year we will have millions of men with us, veterans who have lost their jobs in this economic crisis."

A group of 250 veterans, quartered in water front billets at Seventh and Water streets southwest, were evicted yesterday without disorder.

Estimates of Strength.

It was estimated last night that not more than 1,000 veterans still remained in the city, and virtually all of these were making plans to leave. The police estimated that the greatest strength of the Army was 12,000 men, although Veterans Administration officials placed the peak figure at not more than 8,000.

Before the troops began their last onset late yesterday they visited a building in the 200 block of A street southeast, which had been used as quarters for about 50 men; but the men had fled before their arrival.

In the raid on the radical meeting, the police, apparently familiar with the appearance of the men they were seeking, weeded the leaders out without hesitation.

As they were escorted over the District line, the radicals shouted:

"We'll be back!"

"And we'll be waiting for you," replied the police.

Marcher Scion of Lee Resents Move-on Order

(Associated Press.)

Of all the bonus marchers driven out of Virginia yesterday, Robert E. Lee Marshall was the most indignant. He claimed relationship both with the Confederate general and Chief Justice John Marshall. Furthermore, he said, he was born in Richmond.

But to State police he was just another member of large groups of bonus seekers and Gov. Pollard had issued orders against permitting entrance of such large groups. Escorted out of Virginia to Rockville, Md., Marshall was effusive.

"They ran me out from right behind my uncle's home," he said, indignantly.

Marshall was in camp at Oakcrest, just in rear of Arlington, home of Gen. Robert E. Lee. The veteran gave his present address as Los Angeles.

PRESIDENT DRAWS RECOVERY SCHEME

Outlines Nine Projects for Rehabilitation That Are Now Under Way.

retarded in even the slightest degree by organized lawlessness. The first obligation of my office is to uphold and defend the Constitution and the authority of the law. This I propose always to do."

The new nine-point program has been worked out during the last two weeks in a series of informal business conferences at the White House, the Treasury and Commerce Departments and the R. F. C.

To hasten the construction authorized under the self-liquidating works section of the new relief bill, the President plans to create a board of outstanding engineers to advise upon loan applications for such projects. This board, under the presidency of a man to be delegated by the Army Engineer Corps, would make the stimulation of employment and the prompt placement of material orders a cardinal policy.

The modernization of slums, probably through semipublic enterprises initially financed in part by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, still is in the stage of preliminary examination. It is known, however, that this project has generous support among both business men and financiers. It also is advocated vigorously by scores of agencies engaged primarily in relief work and social rehabilitation. Its early acceptance as a part of the new R. F. C. program is predicted by several of the President's advisers.

Agricultural Credit Aid.

Coordination of all agricultural credit aids will be sought through periodic conferences between the Farm Loan Board, the Department of Agriculture and the Federal Farm Board, all of which are to place themselves at the service of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the execution of the new program. Through this joint effort, with the anticipated supplemental aid of private agencies, means are to be sought for supplying consumption credits as well as crop and feeding loans on the production side.

Insofar as industrial employment has been hampered by "dislocation of the credit machinery," the new program will be directed entirely to reestablishing normal credit operations, under the direction of the Federal Reserve system.

Stimulation of the steel industry through equipment replacement has been the principal objective of the recent White House conferences of several key men in the railroad world, the President's statement revealed.

Home Building Expansion.

The seventh point, establishment of the home loan banking system as quickly as possible, contemplates easier mortgage money and the expansion of home building where shortages already exist.

Plans to extend the principle of the flexible work week to industry generally will be discussed Monday, when President Hoover is to meet representatives of the recent New England conference on reemployment. Reduced working hours, to spread work, was one of the principal recommendations of the Boston conference.

Through various Federal agencies, the President has suggested this step to industrial managers several times during the last two years. The immediate job next week will be to find ways and means to bring the principle, now widely accepted, to practical application.

Special Guards Placed At Cleveland Buildings

Cleveland, July 29 (A.P.).—Special details of police were assigned to guard all public buildings here today in the possibility of troublesome local reactions to the fighting between unemployed veterans and the soldiers and police in Washington.

Deputy Police Inspector Charles O. Nevel also ordered patrolmen to keep a close watch on hardware and any other stores where firearms might be obtained.

Marchers Pass Through Gettysburg in Trucks

Gettysburg, Pa., July 29 (A.P.).—The advance guard of the retreating bonus "marchers" army started passing through Gettysburg shortly before midnight tonight, bound for the Ohio State line, in Pennsylvania highway department trucks.

Pennsylvania State troopers and highway patrolmen escorted the motorized group westward. The troopers' commander, Maj. C. M. Wilhelm, said none of the men would be permitted to leave the trucks at Johnstown, where plans have been made by Mayor Eddie McClosky to receive them. He added that the cavalcade would drive all night.

HARRISON DECLARES HOOVER DELAYED AID

Senator Charges President Waited Two Years for Slump Remedies.

(Associated Press.)

The Hoover administration was accused last night by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, of "waiting two long years after the economic collapse" to present a legislative plan for meeting it.

Opening the Democratic campaign over the radio, Harrison, in reply to Secretary Mills, asserted that the economic program "finally enacted was woven and lined with Democratic thought."

The Mississippi senator, who is ranking member of the finance committee, went to the Roosevelt firing line with a full-fledged attack upon the whole Hoover administration, declaring the President and his Cabinet "should be condemned and crucified upon a cross of failure."

"This panic started in October, 1929," he said, "and the first suggestion by the President of any legislation relating to economic cure or restraint was in June, 1931. After more than a year and a half he asked the Democrats to cooperate with him in granting an extension of time for interallied payments on the foreign debt.

"At that time the President stated it was nonpartisan. He publicly declared his appreciation to the Democrats for their cooperation, but now his Cabinet spokesmen declare it is one of the reasons why he should be reelected this year.

"The first intimation that President Hoover had a program for our economic recovery was in October, 1931. It was to mark the second anniversary of the country's economic collapse. It required two long years for the administration to present even that plan, and now he is glorified for it only by his own Cabinet who are equally responsible for the inaction, procrastination and uncertainty of this administration to meet courageously and promptly these pressing problems.

"The President knows, as does his Cabinet, that each of these proposals was woven and lined with Democratic thought."

Replying to the plea of Secretary Mills for retention of "veterans" in command of the Government, Harrison asserted "We need another chart and another crew to steer the ship into smoother and calmer seas."

Crisp Expresses Hope Conciliation Was Used

Atlanta, Ga., July 29 (A.P.).—Hope that "every conciliatory method was used before force was resorted to" in evacuating the former service men from Washington quarters yesterday was expressed today by Representative Charles R. Crisp in an address to the Atlanta post of the American Legion.

The acting chairman of the House ways and means committee is running for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Georgia.

Reich Paper Predicts Hoover's Doom in Riot

Berlin, July 29 (A.P.).—The Washington riots shared the front pages today with stories about the important Reichstag elections Germany is to hold Sunday. The Mittag Zeitung printed two colums of details, ending with a paragraph headed: "Hoover's end?"

The paragraph suggested that the President's chances for reelection had been killed by "the brutal evacuation of the veterans."

GRAND JURY PROBE OF RIOTS ORDERED

Body Is Advised of Situation as Mitchell Acts; Quiz to Start Monday.

An immediate and thorough grand jury investigation of the bonus riots was ordered yesterday by William D. Mitchell, Attorney General of the United States.

The investigation was launched after the Attorney General had conferred with United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who will take personal charge of the inquisition. Mr. Rover announced upon his return to the courthouse that he planned the opening of the investigation for 10 a. m., Monday.

Following out the tone of the Attorney General's order, Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in the District Supreme Court called the members of the grand jury before him and directed the members to take up the inquiry. Agents of the Treasury Department who gathered extensive data on the communists in the bonus ranks, and members of the police Department will be called to testify.

Justice Luhring's Remarks.

Justice Luhring's remarks to the grand jury were:

"The Court must take notice of the startling news appearing in the public press yesterday afternoon and this morning.

"It appears that a considerable group of men, styling themselves as bonus marchers, have come to the District of Columbia from all parts of the country for the stated purpose of petitioning Congress for the passage of legislation providing for the immediate payment of the so-called bonus certificates. The number of these men has been variously estimated as from 5,000 to 10,000.

"It is reported that certain buildings in this city, belonging to the Government, were in the possession of members of the so-called bonus army, who had been requested to vacate, but had declined to do so; that possession of the property by the Government was immediately necessary for the erection of new buildings which Congress had directed built; that yesterday agents of the Treasury, proceeding lawfully, went upon the premises to dispossess the bonus army, and a force of District police was present to afford protection and prevent disorder; that the bonus marchers were removed from one old building which the public contractor was waiting to demolish; that thereupon a mob of several thousand bonus marchers, coming from other quarters, proceeded to this place for the purpose of resisting the officials and of regaining possession of the Government property.

Cites Mob Attack.

"It appears that this mob, incited by some of their number, attacked the police, seriously injured a number of them, and engaged in riot and disorder. Their acts of resistance reached such a point that the police authorities were unable to maintain order and the Commissioners of the District were compelled to call upon the Federal authorities for troops to restore order and protect life and property.

"It is obvious that the laws of the District were violated in many respects. You should undertake an immediate investigation of these events with a view to bringing to justice those responsible for this violence, and those inciting it as well as those who took part in acts of violence.

"It is reported that the mob guilty of actual violence included few former-service men, and was made up mainly of Communists, and other disorderly elements. I hope you will find that is so and that few men who have worn the Nation's uniform engaged in this violent attack upon law and order. In the confusion not many arrests have been made, and it is said that many of the most violent disturbers and criminal elements in the unlawful gathering have already scattered and escaped from the city, but it may be possible yet to identify and apprehend them and bring them to justice.

"It is important that this matter be dealt with promptly. The United States attorney is prepared to assist you in every way you may require.

"That is all I have to say. The matter is in your hands."

Treadway Holds Congress Members Are to Blame

Pittsfield, Mass., July 29 (A.P.).—Representative Allen T. Treadway, of the First Massachusetts District, today placed responsibility for the Washington bonus war on "certain members of Congress, particularly Congressman Wright Patman of Texas."

"Up to the time I left Washington the men who had come there in hopes of bonus payment had been entirely orderly," said Treadway. "But it seemed inevitable that with certain agitators prominent in numbers, there would eventually be some physical demonstration.

"It is perhaps not out of place to give consideration to what has caused this movement to gain such momentum. Primarily I consider that certain members of Congress, particularly Patman of Texas, are to blame for the uprising."

More Veterans Coming Here, Despite Evictions

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 29.—Ignoring the fact that members of the bonus army were routed from Washington last night, benus marchers from the West Coast proceeded through Clarksburg today and headed Eastward.

W. C. Godwin and eight other veterans from Los Angeles arrived in a truck at noon today, stating that the group was part of the commissary department for the other bonus marchers now on United States Route 50. Other automobiles conveying veterans from Orgon and Washington passed through the city this morning headed East.

Reds Plan Nation-Wide Protests for Monday

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The national campaign committee of the Communist party issued a call today for Nation-wide meetings next Monday to protest the Government's method of handling the bonus army in Washington.

A statement issued by the committee charged President Hoover, Secretarys Ogden Mills and Patrick Hurley had "deliberately planned war" upon the former service men.

PATMAN DENOUNCES HOOVER TROOPS ACT

Suggests Use of Military to Drive Out "International Banking Lobby."

Texarkana, Tex., July 29 (A.P.).—Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, leader of the fight for cash payment of the veterans' bonus, denounced President Hoover today for ordering the evacuation of the bonus marchers from Government property in Washington and suggested the President "use the Army to drive the international banking lobby from the Capital City."

"I can not understand why the Army was used to drive men from Washington who were not in Government buildings, but in homes they had built with their own hands," Patman said. "It is true they are lobbyists, not only for veteran legislation, but for unemployment relief for all the people.

"Has the President adopted a policy of using the Army to drive lobbyists from Washington. If he has, I suggest he use the Army to drive the international banking lobby from the Capital City. This lobby is working in secret, but the President knows who they are and what they are trying to do.

"Andrew W. Mellon has arrived in Washington in time to witness the killing of hungry men. He and his brother made $8,000,000,000 out of the World War and the settlement with the Government after the war, and he was the Government's representative in making the settlements.

"The blood of hungry men who die in this panic is on the hands of Mellon because the policies adopted and executed while three Presidents were serving under him have caused this misery and distress in a land of plenty.

"Some day the people will learn the truth, and then there will be changes in the economic system for the benefit of the masses of people."

"Issuance of money by private interests and the abuse of Government credit has became the world's greatest racket," he concluded.

Norman Thomas Scores Hoover's Action in Riot

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, issued a statement today characterizing the President's action in calling troops against the bonus army as "a bad case of nervous irritation mixed with fear which rationalized itself as a defense of law and order."

"Once more," the statement said, "it has been proved that capitalism which neither can nor will give bread to workers is more than ready to give them bullets. The use of the Army against unemployed veterans under direct order of the President is criminally inexcusable. So far as order was concerned the situation had been well handled by the veterans themselves."

POLICE COURT FINES SEVERAL VETERANS

Bonus marchers fared poorly in their trials in Police Court yesterday. Most of those convicted were given fairly severe sentences.

Bernard McCoy, 36, of Chicago, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct, and was arraigned on another charge—that of assaulting Policeman E. E. Scott, who is in the hospital with a fractured skull. McCoy will be tried later on this charge.

John O. Olsen, of Sacramento, Calif., charged with assaulting Policeman R. O. Bankert, chauffeur for Brig. Gen. P. D. Glassford, police chief, with a table leg, had his case continued. Broadus Faulkner, colored, charged with disorderly conduct, also was given a continuance.

Crawford M. Gray, of Cleveland, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct, and Thomas Donlon, of Philadelphia, was permitted to go on his personal bond after he had been convicted of disorderly conduct. Donlon promised to leave town. Harold Evans was fined $25. Others who were given maximum $25 fines were Robert Halligan, Dennis Cavanaugh, and Joseph T. Granger.

Harry Saxton, accused of intoxication, was allowed freedom when he said his wife and two small children were missing in the B. E. F. exodus. Three colored veterans, arrested in an automobile in Anacostia, were fined.

JOHNSTOWN AWAITS BONUS ARMY INFLUX

Mayor Blames Mellon for Forcible Evacuation of Veterans in Capital.

Johnstown, Pa., July 29 (U.P.).—Remnants of the scattered bonus expeditionary army were converging on Johnstown tonight, with at least 100 men, headed by three of Commander W. W. Waters' lieutenants, already at the city's outskirts.

Johnstown, the veterans' leaders said, has been selected as the "field headquarters" of the new "khaki shirts," the suggested successor to the ill-fated and loosely knit organizations that melted away last night and today under the attack of the Regular Army in Washington.

Matthew Burke, chief of staff for Waters; Capt. Doak Carter, and Contact Officer R. B. Ellison, were among the first arrivals in the city they regard as friendly to the bonus army.

Burke immediately went to work to perfect a commissary organization and sent telegrams to all cities where food and clothing have been collected for the B. E. F., directing that supplies should be sent here.

It was in the implied invitation of Mayor Eddie McCloskey, former prizefighter and "two-fisted" public official who ran for office while he was running a pants pressing establishment, that the veterans were beginning to make their way to Johnstown.

McCloskey, who is associated in his economic philosophy with Father James Cox, militant Pittsburgh priest, said he had no plans for taking care of the expected encampment of veterans.

No site for the encampment has been selected, and there was some fear expressed among Johnstown business men that the town would suffer from its homeless guests.

LaGuardia Asks Hoover To Listen to Glassford

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Representative F. H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, suggested in a message to President Hoover today that the judgment of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford be heeded in dealing with veterans and that veterans and other unemployed in Washington be provided with food and shelter out of the appropriation made for that purpose.

SCENES AS BONUS MARCHERS TURN BACKS ON CITY

Their main camp a mass of ruins thousands of bonus marchers yesterday turned their backs on the District and headed for more peaceful haunts. Upper, Camp Marks, Anacostia, in ruins. The vets fired the camp as they retreated before the infantry and cavalry. Soldiers stand guard to preclude the return of the marchers. (Associated Press Photo.) Center, the communistic element is escorted across the District line at Kenilworth, Md., by State troopers. U.S. READY TO CLEAR FORMER BONUS AREA

Razing Ordered to Proceed on Buildings Vacated by Marchers.

With members of the bonus army evicted from sites on which Government buildings are to rise in the future, the Treasury Department yesterday notified contractors to clear the areas and prepare them for the construction work.

It is expected that within a day or so officials will advertise for bids to fill in and grade off a large section of the area on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue between Third and Seventh streets.

Construction work on the Agricultural extensible building, between Twelfth and Fourteenth, B and C streets southwest, can now be continued. Two wings of this building already are up. H. Herfurth, Inc., of Alexandria, will clear the site for the remaining work.

Although no buildings are to rise for the present between Third and Seventh streets, the Government will have the area cleared so that work may proceed immediately when appropriations are made available. The site of the "Apex" building of the Government triangle will rise in this section.

The area between Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania and Missouri avenues, will now be cleared by Rhine & Co., of Alexandria. One large building, however, will not be removed for the present, due to court litigation. As yet no decision has been rendered in the Colonial Ice Cream Co. building case and it must be left standing until a condemnation order is issued.

Legion Post Commends Hoover in Bonus Ouster

Boston, July 29 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, today sent a telegram to President Hoover indorsing his action on the bonus marchers in Washington.

"We know that the action of this group has neither the support, the sympathy, nor the respect of the true veterans of the country," the committee said with reference to the bonus marchers. The Crosscup-Pishon Post is composed of advertising men and is one of the most prominent posts in Massachusetts.

Comic and Tragic Bits In Veterans' Evacuation

Flames from the burning bonus billets damaged nearly a score of the stately poplar trees that Washingtonians pride themselves on. In the block between Third street and Four-and-one-half street northwest, a dozen of the fine old trees were seared by the smoke and fire. On Maryland avenue southwest, between Third street and Four-and-one-half street another dozen or so proud poplars were damaged.

Reporters noticed a veteran outside the grim troop lines, bending solicitously over a black valise. Looking over his shoulder into the bag, a fox terrier mother and five very young puppies were discerned. The veteran was asked the reason for his anxiety: "Gassed," he said.

The dog was caring for the litter as well as she could. Tenderly she wiped the tears drawn by the gas fumes from the suffering faces of the young terriers.

A Washington Post reporter, scurrying toward the flaming Anacostia billet early yesterday, had a frenzied moment. Police and troops were breaking up a group of bonus marchers at Good Hope road southeast and Nichols avenue. Suddenly a police billy flew through the window of the coupe. Then a tear gas bomb slithered across the pavement and beneath the machine. It began to sputter. The traffic cleared ahead, the reporter jammed on full speed. "Whew! Anyhow," he soliloquized, "I got a souvenir," and he fondled the nightstick.

The steel-helmeted troops, bayonets fixed, formed a warlike silhouette in the wee sma' hours yesterday morning against the flaming background of Camp Marks. Field mess kitchens provided a hot bite for them as they rested from their demolition of the mushroom city.

A covey of Negro urchins caused considerable chagrin to a cavalry trooper. A file of the mounted soldiers was halted temporarily at a corner in the Southwest section. Mischievously and covertly the children pelted troopers with green apple cores. The pellets hit a horse's flanks, causing him to prance viciously. Some of the missiles struck a cavalryman in the fact. He bit his lip steadily but made no move toward his tormenters.

Poking through the smoldering ruins of Camp Marks, reporters early yesterday found a small graphophone playing merrily away in a hut. Evidently troopers had kept it wound. The tune "In a Little Spanish Town" was tinnily issuing forth from the doughty little machine. Reporters left after turning the record over to "Where the Lazy Daisies Grow."

An elongated Negro poured forth several impassioned prayers for divine help as the Cavalry urged the bonus marchers on. Even as he did, irreverent comrades hurled sneering taunts at the soldiers, drowning out the prayer. A Post reporter recognized the Negro as having been with the first hunger marchers who came here.

Up to the last second before the tear gas was fired into the Pennsylvania avenue camp Thursday, two lemonade stands in the area did a rushing business. Policemen were the cheif patrons. The proprietors deserted as the acrid fumes surrounded the stand. Reporters, cops and troopers drained the rest of the lemonade.

Traffic Policeman James E. Bennett, on his metal steed, played an exciting game of fox and hounds with a recalcitrant bonus marcher in the Botanic Gardens yesterday afternoon. In and around the trees the chase went. Sir Reynard, in the person of the veteran, got away, however. Bennett narrowly missed hitting several pedestrians.

A taxi driver said yesterday that at least one veteran left the city contentedly. One of them hired him, said the hacker, to go to Union Station and gave him a generous tip. The bonus marcher told the hacker that he had averaged $40 to $50 a week selling gim-cracks and badges while here.

An evidently inebriated veteran emerged from the blazing Anacostia camp early yesterday, infantrymen prodding him along. He borrowed a cigarette from newspapermen and complained bitterly of the interruption to his slumber.

"They pull a bayonet charge on me while I'm asleep. Fine stuff," he said.

Veterans' Head Regrets Outbreak at Capital

Kansas City, July 29 (A.P.).—Commenting on the forced evacuation of the bonus army at Washington, R. B. Handy, jr., national adjutant general of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, recalled today his organization had instructed its members against participation in the invasion of Washington.

"We feel sure," he said, "that the difficulties in Washington will in no way reflect upon the country's patriotic and law-abiding veterans who have presented their demands for cash payment of adjusted service certificates in an orderly manner."

GLASSFORD DENIES HE PLANS TO RESIGN

Criticism of His Handling of Bonus Army Sent City Heads by Hoover.

Face to face with presidential criticism of his administration and bearing the aftermath of an entanglement that rocked the country, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, paused long enough yesterday to spike rumors that he intended to resign.

President Hoover, in a letter to the District Commissioners yesterday, charged that the bonus marchers "were undoubtedly led to believe that the civil authorities could be intimidated with impunity because of attempts to conciliate them by lax law enforcement of city ordinances and laws in many directions."

Gen. Glassford offered no apologies for his own part or that of his men in handling the veterans. He denied that he ever admitted the situation out of police control or requested the aid of the United States Army. He appeared annoyed that the Commissioners' report to President Hoover declared the situation could not be handled by District police.

Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, and Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, signed a statement to President Hoover in reply to his letter. They reminded him they were still responsible for law and order in the city.

Dr. Reichelderfer and Gen. Glassford both declined to comment on the President's communication. They declared, however, that if any indictment was intended it would be of the commissioners as well as the Police Department.

Busy aiding and advising scores of stranded veterans and their wives who crowded his office yesterday, Gen. Glassford pointed out that if he "is to be jumped on" it will be by the commissioners.

Hashka's Divorced Wife Wants Massive Funeral

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—The divorced wife of William Hashka, Chicago war veteran slain in the Washington bonus riot, today said she hoped there would be a "massive parade at the funeral as a protest against the treatment of the veterans." The woman, Mrs. Frances Krwenko, telegraphed Washington authorities asking that Hashka's body be sent here for burial.

MARYLAND PROVIDES B.E.F. WITH TRUCKS

3,200 Retreating Marchers Taken Through; Some Board Freight Cars.

A total of 3,200 retreating bonus marchers were taken through Maryland yesterday in State and county trucks and buses.

The entire police force of Montgomery County and 45 State policemen, under the direction of Capt. Richard McK. Johnson, were mobilized at the District line and formed escorts for the truckloads of veterans.

The largest body of marchers gathered at Bladensburg, where Capt. Johnson said there were about 2,000. A fleet of 60 State roads commission trucks were mobilized to carry them to Frederick. At Frederick, 25 more trucks joined the caravan and carried the marchers to the State line.

The veterans and their families were fed at Frederick, where Gen. Milton A. Reckord, of the Maryland National Guard, took charge.

School Buses Used.

County trucks and school buses were pressed into service in Montgomery County to carry the veterans. As the marchers straggled over the District line on Wisconsin avenue yesterday morning, they met a detail of police under Sergt. Leroy Rogers.

The men were told that they could wait until the trucks could be gathered, transportation would be provided for them, and about 200 camped for several hours under trees along the road. Those who wanted to continue on foot were allowed to, however, and the Rockville pike was marked by small detachments at quarter-mile intervals.

It was reported that two freight trains which stopped at North Takoma Park early yesterday were boarded and filled by retreating veterans, and other stragglers were reported on nearly all roads leading out of the county. For this reason, an accurate estimate of the number which left Washington through Maryland was impossible to obtain.

Totals of estimates made by various officials, however, show that about 3,200 were given transportation. More than a score of B. E. F. trucks, each loaded with men, also were reported, and many commercial trucks took loads of men from the District.

Blame Reds For Fight.

"We didn't start the fight" one man said. "It was those damned reds down at the other end of the block. We didn't want to fight—we would have pitched in and helped the police clean them out. But then they started throwing tear gas, and that makes any man mad."

Another man displayed a tin box which he said contained tear bombs he had taken from police and soldiers. "I'm going to use them when we come back," he said.

About 20 men who arrived at the Rockville court house early yesterday were given places to sleep and fed. Chief Alvie Moxley bought meat for them from his personal funds to supplement the coffee and bread supplied from the jail kitchen.

James M. Burt, a Missouri bonus marcher, collapsed at the District line from the aftereffects of tear gas and heat exhaustion. He was treated by the Bethesda rescue squad and sent to Frederick in a truck.

At Camp Cascade, Md., where the Maryland National Guard encamped for their annual maneuvers, all the men were ordered to hold themselves in readiness for service. The First Battalion of the First Regiment may reach Frederick in half an hour, if necessary, according to officers.

Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, of Silver Spring, supply officer, was sent to Frederick yesterday afternoon to make arrangements to feed the men, and Lieut. Edward Warfield is arranging for their transportation. Lieut. Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock will be in command of the battalion, if it is called out.

RIVAL GANG SLAYS 3 VOLPE BROTHERS

away. The machine bore New York license plates.

Scenes of wild confusion followed as police battled with hundreds of curious to clear the street.

The Volpes for years had been known as political powers in suburban Wilmerding. A year or so ago their power began to wane and they transferred much of their activity to Pittsburgh. Other bootleggers frowned and it was known trouble was in the air for the brothers. Tom Mulvihill, homicide detective, said he heard two months ago that the Volpes were on "the spot."

Louis Volpe, a brother of the three slain today, is the last of the clan. He was in jail on a liquor charge at the time of the shooting.

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh immediately sent squads of police and detectives into the district in an effort to round up the killers.

Black Raps Hoover For Calling Troops

Alabaman Declares Courts Should Have Handled Veteran Lawbreakers.

(Associated Press.)

The action of President Hoover in employing troops to evacuate the bonus camps was criticized yesterday by Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, in a public statement as "without justification in fact, theory or law."

Senator Black, who is a veteran himself, said:

"The courts of the District are open. If it is true, as claimed, that there was a relatively small proportion of these veterans guilty of violating some of the criminal statutes, they should have been tried in court like American citizens."

For the most part, however, the few members of Congress now here preferred to make no comment on the situation lest it be aggravated.

Inquest Will Be Held Monday in HashkaDeath

An inquest in the fatal shooting Thursday of William J. Hashka, bonus marcher of Chicago, by Traffic Policeman George Shinault during a melee incident to evacuation proceedings, will be held Monday morning, Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald announced last night.

The coroner yesterday ordered the release of Shinault from the technical custody in which he was placed after the shooting.

INCREDIBLE HAPPENINGS CONTEST.

SEND in the story of the most incredible incident in your life and win a round trip to the next Democratic convention! The following believe-it-or-why-not stories were received today:

Sir: On Father's Day, 1920, I was canoeing with my uncle in the Orinoco River, which was at that time located in Brazil. He had an argument over the tariff and he jumped overboard to cool off. He was swallowed by a giant crocodile. Then years later to the day I was sitting in a speakeasy in Chicago when I saw a school of crocodiles directly ahead of me. I killed the leader and cut it open. To my astonishment, I found inside the crocodile a man who looked enough like my uncle to be his brother. On closer examination he looked enough like my uncle to be my uncle. As a matter of fact, it was my long lost uncle. He was too overcome to talk, because in all those years inside the crocodile he had not seen a white man! We took up the tariff argument where we had left off and found it just as good as ever.

Dear Editor: I submit the following for your Incredible Incidents Contest. In the summer of 1919 I was fishing on the edge of Niagara Falls, using the overlapping grip, when suddenly I felt a tug on my line, which I might say was a party line, 1867. It was the heaviest tug I had ever experienced.

"Elephants!" said Tumbo-Wimbo my native guide. I let the line back. There was an even heavier strike and, after a three-hour battle in which the losses on both sides were far out of proportion to the engagement, I landed my prize, and what do you think it was? The musket my great-grandfather, Emil, had carried in the battle of Little Round Top!

It was still running and keeping perfect time.

SIRS: I do not think any reader has had a more unusual experience than the following. I was educated in the public schools of America and consequently came to manhood without knowing the letters of the alphabet.

My employer didn't seem to notice it, but some of his constituents demanded that I learn the alphabet and the art of spelling. It was too late to go back to school and I had no money to go to college, but I mastered the alphabet in three weeks, and I'll tell you how. I did it by working nights in an alphabet soup factory. Will wonders never cease?

Sir: Here is one for the book. In May, 1928, I got into an elevator in a skyscraper office building and asked to be left off at the thirty-fifth floor. The operator let me off at that floor. I do not think a thing like this has happened before in American history.

FARM BOARD WORK SCORED AT HEARING

Witnesses Rap Its Activities at U. S.-in-Business Investigation.

St. Louis, July 29 (A.P.).—The Congressional Committee investigating Government in business today saw a parade of witnesses protesting activities of the Federal Farm Board and the expenditure of Government funds in promotion of farmer cooperatives.

Eighteen farmers from three States, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, were brought here by the Merchants Exchange of St. Louis to tell the committee their opinions of the Farm Board.

Roger P. Annan, former president of the Merchants Exchange, which conducts grain trading in St. Louis, said the Farm Board had set up organizations which bought and sold grain like private companies.

Annan said any lasting improvement in grain prices must come with repeal of the agricultural marketing act.

Illinois Farmer Heard.

George Brenner, who owns 280 acres near Cessna Park, Ill., told the committee the Farm Board had helped no one in his county, and that a cooperative of which he was a member did better before it became affiliated with the Farm Board.

Another farmer, Charles Holz of Buckley, Ill., said he wanted to see the agricultural act repealed and referred to "coercive" methods of the Farm Board in dealing with farmers.

The first witness to testify in favor of Government competition was Maurice Cassidy, secretary of the St. Louis Building and Trades Council, who said:

"The Government pays better wages in the industry in which it is competing, it renders more efficient service and does the work with a view to protecting the taxpayers."

Hyde Urged to Testify.

Kansas City, July 29 (A.P.).—In reply to Secretary Hyde's charge that testimony before the Shannon House committee in favor of abolition of the Farm Board was "inaccurate and misleading," Frank A. Theis, representing the grain committee on national affairs, urged the official today to appear as a rebuttal witness.

"Mr. Hyde, as Secretary of Agriculture and ex-officio member of the Farm Board, is derelict in his duties if he permits the testimony of farmers and grain merchants which he charges is inaccurate and misleading to go into this public record without his rebuttal testimony," Theis said in a statement.

"If Secretary Hyde is of the belief that farmers may be fooled by his electioneering statements, I suggest that he make a trip to Kansas and tell farmers of the 'benefits' brought about for agriculture by the Farm Board and his department."

Widening of Richmond Highway Section Urged

Richmond, Va., July 29 (A.P.).—The State department of highways today was urged by a delegation from the city of Alexandria and the counties of Fairfax and Prince William to widen the Alexandria-Fredericksburg section of the Richmond-Washington highway to correspond with the width of the highway between Richmond and Fredericksburg.

The special Federal aid appropriation which now is available to Virginia revived the hope that the widening might be undertaken, after the project was temporarily abandoned with the reduced highway revenues for Virginia this year. The highway commission took the request under advisement.

Home Destroyed By $40,000 Blaze

Dog Arouses C. T. England as Flames Devour His Fairfax Dwelling.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the large, brick house of C. T. England, on the Columbia pike, between Bailey's Cross Roads and Annandale, in Fairfax County, Va., early yesterday. The damage was estimated to be approximately $40,000.

Mr. England, a retired builder and contractor, of Washington and Virginia, was alone in the house at the time, his family being absent, visiting friends in Maryland. He was sleeping on a couch in the sun parlor when awakened about 4 o'clock by his small dog jumping on the bed. Looking through the door into the house he saw the interior was a mass of flames. He went to the home of a neighbor and notified the Falls Church Fire Department.

All that is left standing of the once palatial home is three brick walls, badly cracked by the intense heat.

1 tablespoon cold water
½ teaspoon cold butter

Heat all ingredients together until melted and then let cool. Add a little vanilla, about ½ teaspoon, and XXXX sugar until right consistency to spread. It never gets brittle and hard after it is on the cake and has a delightfully creamy consistency which with the delicate caramel flavor of the brown sugar and butter, makes it an icing hard to beat.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Schooners Loaded With Watermelons and Potatoes Crowd Washington Wharves and Prove Fascinating Spectacle for Roaming Capital Adviser.

Crowding each other for berths at the wharves of Washington's big terminal market in the Southwest section, the watermelon boats are unloading their appealing summer cargoes. Eager customers are crowding about them. Family cars come to the wharf edge, watermelon shopping. Restaurateurs buy melons by the truck load. Sometimes a chain store buyer takes the schooner's entire load at one transaction.

"Hey! Gimme up one of them Georgia Rattlesnakes!" commands the boat captain to a colored helper in the hold. It is a startling order unless you happen to know that to the watermelon wise, certain striped melons are known as "Georgia Rattlesnakes."

In the retail fish shops bordering on the wharves the Meanderer learned that fresh crab meat is of splendid quality and selling for a very low price. The best quality of the crab meat is 40 cents a pound. It is the kind which sold last summer for 90 cents or $1 a pound. The fish shops, too, recommend as one of their best offerings the Boston mackerel at 15 cents a pound.

Three dozen fresh eggs for 55 cents was an outstanding value in the open-air stands, established mostly by farmers in the Southwest market from farms in northern Virginia. These eggs are collected almost every day by the stand's busy proprietor, while his wife is selling them to a fast-growing list of pleased customers.

Sugar corn for 25 cents a dozen was another offering in the stand where fresh eggs are so cheap. And in an adjoining stand the Meanderer found blackberries, ripe and sweet and in very good condition, at 25 cents for three quart boxes.

Old-fashioned salt rising bread is probably the most popular seller in a certain bakery the Meanderer visited, even though the bread sells for 13 cents a loaf. Another unusual bread made by this bakery is lima bean bread, of flour made from a combination of wheat and lima beans. It is valuable in dietary difficulties. Maryland biscuits are fluffy offerings in this shop. Revolving oven shelves used in this bakery bring an even brown crust to all the products and upset the old theory that foods should never be moved during the baking process.

But sitting on boats eating watermelon wasn't gathering information about foods for Washington families. But the marketing housewife can make no mistake, if she cares to add interest to her search for summer food, in going to the wharf for watermelons. The Meanderer is quite unable to quote a specific price on the big green fruit. She heard too much bargaining between customers and sellers, with too many different prices mentioned. Forty cents a melon seemed cheap to some customers, others were not any too willing to pay a quarter. Perhaps the best satisfied customer was a colored man who paid 15 cents for half a melon.

Wharf shopping has variety. Potato boats are numerously berthed. High quality potatoes, freshly dug and barreled, sometimes loaded by the grower in his own vessel for the trip to the market, are worthy of the housewife's attention. Low prices prevail on the potatoes. A bushel of the best potatoes costs only 75 cents at the wharf. A barrel, containing three bushels, is $1.75.

One potato boat, the Harriet, has seen life in contrasting phases. "She used to be a yacht sloop," the captain said. So, where deck hands now sit on barrels of potatoes, there may at one time have been fine, leisurely ladies sitting on fine cushions, or moneyed yachtsmen whiling away time. The earthy cargo of 250 barrels of Irish Cobblers the boat now carries came from lower Virginia.

Fish boats, of course, are always about the wharves. Choice for the fish dinner may be made from one boat among croakers, trout, butterfish or Norfolk spot, all at 5 cents a pound or Boston mackerel at 15 cents a pound. Clams sell for about a cent apiece at the wharf.

A heavy load of canned tomatoes was an unusual cargo. These could not be purchased by the housewife as yet, the captain said, for they were sold to a chain store. The tomatoes had been canned at Farnham, Va.

Inquiries about items in this column will be answered at The Washington Post, telephone National 4205, branch 52, or by Mildred Reed Bundy, The Washington Post, if stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed with inquiry.

ICE CREAM RECIPE WINS POST AWARD

Miss Louise Jamison Shows How Confection Is Made Without Cream.

This week's Post $5 recipe award was won by Miss Louise Jamison, of 1306 Kenyon street northwest. Her recipe was for "Ice Cream without Cream."

To be eligible for The Post's weekly recipe awards, formulas for food creations must use some products of the advertisers on the Saturday food page of The Post.

The recipe follows:

1 pint—tall can—of Sealect Evaporated Milk (Sanitary Grocery)
½ pint of strong coffee (Green Bag Sanitary Grocery)
½ pound of sugar (A. & P.)
1 cup top of bottle milk (Chestnut Farms, A. & P.)
Pinch of salt

Mix ingredients and freeze with ice, or in electric refrigerator.

If preferred cocoa and two teaspoons of vanilla may be used in place of coffee. Or dried apricots, stewed and mashed to a pulp. Bananas, fresh peaches, crushed berries provide delicious variety. A plain ice cream may be had by thickening a half-pint of milk with a dessertspoon of cornstarch and one well-beaten egg, flavoring with vanilla to taste and adding to other ingredients. This really makes a rich, nutritious, and, what is worth considering in these difficult days, most inexpensive ice cream.

PEANUT BUTTER BISCUIT.

4 tablespoons peanut butter
2 tablespoons fat
¾ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups flour
Milk.

Sift the dry ingredients and rub the fat and peanut butter into the flour with the tips of the fingers. Make a well in this dry mixture and, stirring from the center, add slowly milk to make a soft dough. On a lightly floured board, pat out the dough to a layer about ½ inch thick and cut in small rounds. Bake in a quick oven from twelve to fifteen minutes until light brown. Serve at once.

CREAMED CHIP BEEF.

1 tablespoon fat
10c worth chipped beef
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk

Melt the fat in a skillet, add the beef and cook until it is somewhat brown and crisp. Sprinkle the flour over the beef, add the cold milk, stir until thickened, then cook for a few minutes longer. Serve on crisp toast.

UNCLE SAM AND THE HOMEMAKER

By PATTIE ELLICOTT

"Use eggs abundantly while they are cheap" is the advice given by the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture in a recent bulletin calling attention to the fact that the high food value of eggs makes them a most important item in the diet at all times.

It is recalled that of all natural foods, egg yolk is the best source of vitamin D with the exception of fish oils. Children, therefore, given eggs from infancy are better fortified against rickets.

Eggs contain in addition efficient protein and these essential minerals, iron, calcium, phosphorus and magnesium in an easily assimilated form. There is no doubt but that eggs next to milk are the most important source of protein in the diet of growing children. The egg yolk in addition resembles butter in its high percentage of vitamin A, often called the anti-infective vitamin.

In its bulletin the bureau suggests that children of 5 and 6 months be given small quantities of egg yolk, gradually increasing the amount until 18-month-old children are taking a full egg yolk. After two years they may have eggs in practically all forms, properly prepared.

Since only 11 per cent of the egg is lost in the weight of the shell a pound of eggs yields a relatively high proportion of edible food material. The present price of eggs is lower than it has been for years even after discounting the fact that they are usually more plentiful and consequently cheaper at this season.

Eggs have many uses in the diet. They may be served as the main dish of a meal, used in baking, for thickening sauces, to give color and flavor and to make a crisp crust in frying.

Flaked Eggs and Rice.

For the main dish on a warm night, try this egg recipe from the Bureau of Home Economics:

1½ cups uncooked rice
3 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoonful salt
1 bay leaf
½ chopped onion
6 cloves
3 tablespoonfuls fat
3 tablespoonfuls flour
7 eggs
½ cup grated cheese
1 cup buttered crumbs

Cook the rice in a large quantity of boiling salted water about 20 minutes. Drain, wash in hot water and place over steam. Prepare a sauce by cooking the tomatoes and seasoning for 10 minutes, strain and thicken with the blended fat and flour. Make a layer of rice in a shallow greased baking dish, drop the raw eggs carefully on the rice, pour the hot sauce over the eggs, sprinkle over the top the grated cheese mixed with the bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

One nourishing recipe suitable for hot weather menus which has been tested by the Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture, is offered.

Lamb Stew.

2 pounds lean raw lamb
2 tablespoons butter or other fat
½ cup sliced onion
3 cups diced carrots
1 green pepper, chopped
1 quart water
Flour
Salt and pepper

Breast, shoulder, neck, flank and trimmings are all good for lamb stew. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, cut into small pieces, and roll in flour. Melt the butter in a skillet, add the onion, cook until it turns yellow and add the meat. When the meat and onion have browned delicately, transfer them to a kettle, and add the water, after first pouring it into the skillet so as to get the full benefit of the browned fat. Cover, and simmer for one hour. Then add the carrots, green pepper, and seasonings, and cook 20 minutes longer. If the stew is not thick enough, add 1 tablespoon of flour mixed with 2 tablespoons of cold water, and cook for several minutes longer, stirring constantly. Serve piping hot with browned potatoes cooked separately and garnish with parsley.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

QUILTING PARTIES AND CHURCH SUPPERS.

I RECENTLY had a letter from one of my radio audience in Pennsylvania who is having an old-fashioned quilting party. Here's what she says:

"Dear Col. Goodbody: I'm having a quilting lunch and dinner the last of this month. Will you please ask your staff to help out with my menus? There will be sixteen or twenty guests at lunch and about ten for dinner."

Right now there seems to be a special vogue for quilting parties. Mrs. Goodbody helped piece a quilt last month—a double wedding ring pattern.

Quilts certainly have fancy names. There's the double wedding ring, the red star, the all hands round, the saw tooth, and the ocean wave! There's a log cabin pattern, too. I'm not sure I could recognize any of them—but they're well known to expert quilters.

Now about this lunch for sixteen or twenty. Priscilla, who plans my radio menus, suggests a simple cold lunch, served on paper plates so that the quilters won't have to take time off to clear up after the noon meal. I'll discuss this cold lunch in a minute.

In the evening, after a full day's work of "piecing and tying," they'll be ready for a good hot dinner. Here is the dinner menu we are sending to our friend in Pennsylvania: Veal loaf, scalloped potatoes, peas or string beans, jellied tomato salad, or sliced fresh tomatoes, hot biscuits and butter, watermelon, pickle, rhubarb shortcake and coffee.

Dough for the biscuits and shortcake can be rolled out and cut early in the morning. It will keep in the ice box, and can be baked in just a few minutes. The veal loaf can be made the day before, and the rhubarb for the shortcake should be cooked beforehand, too. With these things taken care of, even a dinner for ten shouldn't take a long time to prepare.

Here's a good cold lunch menu: Sardine sandwiches, deviled eggs, bread and butter sandwiches, whole or sliced tomatoes, cucumber strips, chocolate cup cakes, stuffed prunes, salted nuts and tea or coffee.

That assortment of easy-to-fix and easy-to-carry foods would also make a good picnic supper.

Or it would be good for a church or club "Box Supper."

Let's imagine we're getting ready for a church box supper. Each person will bring an attractive boxed meal and exchange with some one else. Or perhaps all the boxes will be placed on one big table in the social rooms of the church, and then we'll all draw lots.

Here's a second good supper you might find: Cold meat loaf or assorted sausages, lettuce sandwiches, potato salad, pickles and olives, mocha-frosted spice cake, fresh fruit and candy.

The meat loaf, or assorted sausages can be sliced at home and wrapped in oiled paper, or parchment paper. The sandwiches are made by spreading salad dressing on one slice of bread, butter on the other, and placing a crisp leaf of lettuce and a few chopped chives between the slices. Wrap the sandwiches in oiled paper.

In the corners of this lunch box you'll find small packages of pickles and olives, and of course salt and pepper. There's your mocha spice cake, too, and an apple or a pear, and a piece of chocolate candy. Chocolate and nut bars are convenient for church box suppers and for picnics.

Coffee will be served by the ladies of the church. There will be plenty of steaming, amber coffee, served with thick country cream, to accompany your sandwiches and cake. And when the church social is over there will be no dishes to wash, except the coffee cups and spoons.

NEARBY MARYLAND ASKS GAS RATE CUT

Public Service Commission and County Groups Seek 8½ Per Cent Slash.

Application of the 8½ per cent reduction in gas bills to gas users in nearby Maryland is asked in a letter sent yesterday to the gas light companies by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The commission's letter is added weight in the pressure being brought to bear by Maryland civic associations on the companies, who recently announced a reduction in Washington gas bills. The cut of 8½ per cent in all bills over the minimum does not apply to nearby Maryland, it was said, and the announcement raised a storm of protest.

The commission's letter points out that the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. of Montgomery agreed nearly two years ago that county rates should approximate city charges.

Rate Data Requested.

In spite of this agreement, the commission says, the county rates have not been put on a parity with those in the city. Rates in Montgomery County are about 20 cents higher than in the city.

In addition to asking the 8½ per cent reduction for Maryland, the commission wants to know when the regular rates will be reduced to those in effect in the city. Two complaints have already been received by the commission from Montgomery residents, and one from Prince Georges County.

The Prince Georges County Chamber of Commerce feels that a further reduction in gas rates is impossible at this time, pointing out that the rates were cut only a short time ago. In Montgomery County, however, the County Civic Federation, the Kensington Chamber of Commerce and the Bethesda Chamber are making preparations to do battle for the 8½ per cent cut.

Sperry to Speak Monday.

The Kensington body opened the fight when it ordered its public utilities committee to work for lower rates, after adopting a resolution asking for them.

Marcey L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., will speak before the Bethesda group Monday night, after which they will make plans for the reduction struggle.

The meeting in Bethesda will be attended by officials of the federation who will coordinate their activities with those of the other groups. Much is expected to depend on the content of Sperry's talk Monday, when he will probably outline the company's intention.

Arlington Warns Of Unpaid Water

Service to Be Cut Off on Delinquent Accounts on August 1.

Pursuant to a recent ruling of the Arlington County board, water service will be cut off at all residnces and business houses where bills rendered on and prior to the quarter ended April 1 of this year, remain unpaid on August 1. According to County Manager Roy S. Braden, the action of the board includes not only water rent, but all deferred payments for frontage and tapping. Bills are payable at the office of County Treasurer Charles T. Jesse at the courthouse.

It is understood that there is approximately $20,000 due the county water department on delinquent bills.

In addition to this ruling, all bills in the future must be paid within one month after received.

J. H. Beattie has been chosen chairman of the general committee in charge of the carnival. Other members are Kirby W. Taylor, J. C. Storm, J. W. Preston, Jesse Dailey, R. R. Sherman, J. N. Payne, Harry R. Parver and Earl D. Sanders.

Fairfax County Groups Will Discuss Byrd Act

The first of a series of public meetings for the discussion of the Byrd road law, under which the Virginia secondary road system is created, is scheduled for tonight in the Community Hall at Burke Station in Fairfax County.

A meeting will be held each night until August 9, in the various sections of the county where civic leaders will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of remaining under the new system, relinquishing local control of all county roads.

Christian Science Churches

"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from I John 4:16: "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else." (Deuteronomy 4:39.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The starting point of divine science is that God, Spirit, is All in all, and that there is no other might nor mind—that God is Love, and therefore He is divine principle." (Page 275.)

"Religion of Joy," Theme at Mt. Pleasant Church

With a country-wide reputation among religious organizations as "The Joy Maker," the Rev. A. Eugene Bartlett, of West Chester, Pa., will preach tomorrow morning at the union summer service in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church. He will speak on "The Religion of Joy." This is the sixth in the series of twelve union services in which the All Souls' Unitarian, National Memorial Universalist, and Mount Pleasant Congregational Churches are cooperating.

Dr. Bartlett, who was formerly pastor of the All Souls' Unitarian Church in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been engaged during the past five years in what is regarded as one of the most unique missions among Protestant churches. He has conducted in organizations of many denominations in all sections of the country, what is known as a "Week of Joy."

During seven days of intensive effort he gives a series of "Studies in Joyous Christianity." In describing the purpose of the mission, he says he "aims to bring to modern churches something of the spirit of joy that was in the early church, and which made it so triumphantly successful." "A new spirit of radiance is being brought to many churches," he says, "which increases the love and loyalty of the membership, and brings them nearer to the joyous Christ in their thinking and their living."

Among the churches in which Dr. Bartlett will conduct a "Joy Week" next fall is the Second Congregational of Waterbury, Conn., of which the Rev. Moses R. Lovell, formerly at the Mount Pleasant Church, is now minister.

Are criminals recruited almost entirely from non-Christian homes? What are the twelve enemies of the American home? Do you think the churches in the City of Washington should unite to establish a school of matrimony where young people can learn the responsibilities of marriage? What is the secret of a successful marriage? What is our hope for a better home life in America?

DISPERSE THE BONUS ARMY.

The so-called bonus army has been completely ousted from Washington. Only stragglers remain, and they occupy the status of visitors, not that of besiegers intent upon occupying the Capital for the purpose of intimidating the Government. The bonus army has been dispersed. It came to a disgraceful end because it resorted to rioting and disorder to hold property belonging to the Government.

Use of troops to evict the veterans after all peaceful methods had failed was entirely proper. It is worthy of note that no blood was shed and no serious encounters took place when once the soldiers were called into action. Fanatics will picture this dramatic evacuation of the bonus army as a brutal attack upon helpless men. But the people of Washington who witnessed the affair know that the veterans were not abused and force was used only when absolutely necessary.

The troops prevented further bloodshed and possibly serious riots. The bonus marchers had manifested their determination to fight the police. By quickly calling for military aid, President Hoover brought the fighting to an end and gave assurance that the evacuation would be carried out without further difficulty. Sentiment from all parts of the country supports the action of the President in meeting mob rule with rigorous measures. There might have been no outbreak at all if, in the words of Mr. Hoover, the veterans had not been "led to believe that the civil authorities could be intimidated with impunity because of attempts to conciliate by lax enforcement of city ordinances and laws in many directions."

It is apparent that the bonus army will not be allowed to assemble in Washington again. Of course, the veterans have a right to come here. But they have no right to organize an "army" and squat on Federal property. Individual veterans will be treated as any other transients, which means that they will not be allowed to make a living by the panhandle method or to disregard the law in any other particular. Those who are guilty of inciting riot and of assaulting the police with deadly weapons should be vigorously prosecuted.

Attempts of the dispersed bonus army to reassemble in the vicinity of Washington will not be successful. Maryland and Virginia will not tolerate an "army" led by agitators within their borders. Johnstown, Pa., offers a temporary haven for the distressed remnants of the B. E. F. But it is unthinkable that the organization can be held together there. Gov. Pinchot has been whining for Federal aid to take care of the unemployed of Pennsylvania for more than a year. That State can not feed an aggregation of destitute men from all parts of the country: Johnstown will be overrun by the bonus seekers. When its meager resources are exhausted, the bonusites will have to make another retreat.

Virginia and Maryland are to be commended for supporting the Government's dispersion of the bonus army. Regardless of where it may be located, the presence of an organized group of disgruntled men, who are at the mercy of agitators, is a menace to law and order. It is too much to expect cooperation of Gov. Pinchot in keeping the veterans on the move until they reach home. But the cost of caring for this destitute group will probably compel him to take similar action.

In the determination of Federal authorities to keep the District free from disorder and group intimidation the human element has not been disregarded. The Red Cross has made provision to transport the women and children of the bonus camps to their homes. Maryland is offering transportation to the veterans crossing that State. Food and sometimes shelter are being provided. Public sympathy goes out to the innocent victims of this mad attempt to coerce the Government, in spite of the general approval which greeted eviction of the bonus army from Washington. Mercy now pleads for the assistance of veterans on their homeward trek, along with rigorous opposition to any remobilization of the bonus army for a repetition of this week's tragic events.

A TRAP FOR UNCLE SAM.

Reports that Senator Borah's scheme for ushering in the millennium through one grand international conference is meeting with favorable response in official circles on both sides of the Atlantic seem to be entirely without foundation. A few observers in Europe, who recognize only that Senator Borah favors cancellation of the war debts and close their minds to the conditions he attaches to that suggestion, were enthusiastic about the statement when it was made. Some Americans who listened to the Idahoan's glowing oratory about returning prosperity enjoyed the mirage for a short time. But reaction soon set in on both sides of the Atlantic. The more this scheme is discussed, the more impossible it appears.

Senator Watson voices the sentiment of the American people when he demands that Europe disarm before any consideration is given to reduction of Europe's war debts. It is absurd to suppose that American taxpayers, to whom this money is owed, will sacrifice their claims to enable European governments to maintain their overgrown war machines. Both Mr. Watson and Mr. Borah recognize that. Yet there is a vital difference betwen their proposals. Senator Watson says, in effect: Let Europe disarm first and then present its plea of incapacity to pay. Senator Borah says: Hold one great international conference in which America could bribe Europe in disarming and relieving Germany of reparations.

It is surprising that a man of Senator Borah's experience is gullible enough to suppose that disarmament could be achieved in such a conference. European statesmen have given consideration to the proposal for one reason only. If such a conference were called, it would entail a virtual offer on the part of the United States to cancel the debts. Statesmen would mull over the problems of the world for a respectable length of time, and then suddenly discover that an agreement on substantial disarmament would be impossible. But in the meantime America's case for collection of the debts would have been shattered. The conference would break up in disagreement or with some petty achievements, and Uncle Sam, having given his case away, would be left holding the bag.

That vision is very alluring to some of the more reckless European statesmen, but there is another side to the picture. The conference proposed by Senator Borah would not be limited to war debts and excessive arms. The Idahoan proposed liquidation of the problems growing out of the war. He wants a new deal that will straighten out international relations all up and down the line. France turned a deaf ear to the Borah plan when it became evident that he envisioned far-reaching changes in the treaty of Versailles. Since that time Lieut. Gen. Schleicher, the German minister of defense, has proclaimed the intention of the Reich to build up an army in spite of treaty restrictions, unless the armed strength of her neighbors is reduced. The last thing in the world to which France would consent is a conference that might upset her military domination of Europe. In spite of their desire to have the United States cancel the war debts, the French begin to realize that the proposed Borah conference would play directly into the hands of Germany.

European statesmen would never agree to a conference on the international problems growing out of the war unless they planned to make it a fiasco. To suppose that the United States would lead the way into such a trap is the most incredible nonsense. In 1920 this country emphatically refused to share the responsibility of adjusting Europe's problems and keeping that continent at peace. Only the most fantastic imagination assumes that the United States is ready to take over that obligation now.

On this side of the Atlantic every one agrees that it would be a fine thing for Europe to rid itself of excess armaments. On the other side, every one thinks it would be a fine thing for America to cancel the debts. But most practical-minded people realize that an attempt of the United States to set Europe's house in order with a view to extending charity to the Old World would be a calamity of the first magnitude.

THE FIGHT FOR ECONOMY.

There is no doubt that the American people are becoming thoroughly aroused to the necessity for drastic economies in public administration. Formation of the non-political National Economy League in New York is the second important organization of this kind to be launched. The new league starts with an imposing group forming its national advisory council, which includes Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, Gen. John J. Pershing and Admiral William S. Sims. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has been elected temporary chairman. Archibald B. Roosevelt is secretary of the advisory committee, and a national committee of 270 members will be chosen by State delegations.

Admiral Byrd expressed the opinion that the new organization is not to be just another league, but a loyal legion of citizens which can speak forcefully in a combined voice of protest. He wants to see a peaceful army of 20,000,000 citizens recruited to demand economies. The first item in Federal extravagance to be attacked by the new organization will be the annual expenditure, now amounting to more than $450,000,000, for veterans of the Spanish-American and World Wars who suffered no disability in war service.

The more general objective of the league is "the reduction of all wasteful and unnecessary governmental expenditures, which have risen to the point where they threaten the public credit and sap the resources of the people—and thus to compel the reduction of taxes." Undoubtedly, the league is alive to the fact that the greatest field for its activities will be found in State, municipal and local expenditures. In the total of $15,000,000,000 for all expenses of government, the Federal budget represents but slightly more than one-fourth.

The National Economy League evidently means business. Admiral Byrd was loudly applauded when he declared: "We shall fight this out to a finish."

The league, with its auspicious start, and the hearty backing of the most prominent representatives of both political parties and leaders in all walks of life, should be able to put the issue of predatory minorities versus the people squarely before the electorate in a way that will produce results.

RED RUMOR MONGERS.

Reports that Communist agitators are spreading false rumors with the deliberate purpose of starting runs upon banks will undoubtedly arouse both State and Federal officials to make every possible effort to apprehend these enemies of society. When the disclosure of this nefarious work comes from such a responsible source as Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, there can be no doubt of its authenticity. Mr. Traylor is convinced that the recent bank runs in Chicago were due directly to a whispering campaign carried on through anonymous telephone calls. Many large banks throughout the country are aware that a concerted attack of a similar nature by Red agents has been planned.

It is fortunate that the public is warned of this outrageous scheme. Every citizen should now be on guard and assist in identifying agents who are conducting this infamous campaign. Any attempt to convey information inimical to a bank, whether by telephone, in writing, or verbally, should at once be reported to the authorities, together with any facts which might lead to capture of the guilty parties. Cooperation on the part of the public will make it possible for these criminals to be brought to justice in short order if they continue their practice.

Communist assaults upon the integrity of the banks is second only to direct attacks upon the government. No action against them can be too severe. They jeopardize the savings of the people, the working capital of business and the credit of the Nation. This is, of course, the very objective sought by these most despicable of alien malefactors who seek by the foulest means to overthrow governments and create chaos in the world. It will be well for Congress at its next session to consider a Federal statute providing condign punishment for this heinous offense.

GASOLINE BOOTLEGGING

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Gasoline tax collection figures are going to be more than ordinarily interesting to many observers this year. That is saying a good deal, too, for these figures always have commanded great attention as reflecting the extent to which motor cars are used in this country.

It is assumed that the figures for 1932 are going to tell a more varied story than ever before. One interesting detail will be how much the increases in rates have boosted total revenues; another, what effect the higher rates have upon consumption or, in other words, to what extent they may cause motorists to think seriously for the first time about the potential economies of driving their cars less than usual.

But the most interesting phase of the total story is that which will reflect declining revenues due to gasoline bootlegging. That phenomenon has been growing steadily with every boost in the tax rate, which, with the new Federal levy of 1 cent a gallon, now averages 4.48 cents per gallon throughout the country.

Estimates of how much bootlegging of gasoline is costing various governmental treasuries vary from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually. There is no doubt that the loss is a tremendous one. That it definitely is proportioned to the tax rate is indicated in the fact that when the levy reaches a level that makes bootlegging profitable State fuel revenues show the effects.

The point is made by many observers of the situation that the motorist, honorable citizen though he may be in most respects, has a chance to profit from gasoline bootlegging without the danger of incurring a penalty. The tax is a levy on refiners or manufacturers. They are supposed to pay it. If it is not paid the liability of punishment rests not upon the consumer, but upon the producer or the middleman.

So far as the car owner is concerned, he buys gasoline at a specified price which is supposed to include the tax. If it does not he is entirely innocent and though he may have strong suspicions that something is amiss he is not liable to penalty in case his assumption proves correct.

The phenomenon of bootlegging gasoline is regarded by many as due primarily to the high rate of tax which makes the practice of evasion profitable. Certainly motorists are not fundamentally opposed to gasoline taxes. The principle involved has had their ardent support, and for fifteen years they have indorsed its application as a means of financing highway construction.

The combination of ever-mounting tax rates and the diversion of funds thus produced to other purposes than road building, however, has awakened a spirit of protest on the part of car owners. This spirit, together with reductions in fuel costs amounting from 20 to 35 per cent, has built up for the bootlegger a heavy patronage.

Just how extensive this illicit trade has become is expected to be computable with reasonable accuracy from the total returns on fuel consumption and revenues this year.

POST HASTE.

Good-by, bonus boys; it may be hard for you to believe it, but Washington was as sorry to see you go—that way—as it was to see you come.

It is unfortunate that such exaggerated importance had to be given to the disturbance caused in the Capital by a few thousand men, some misguided, others here with the fell purpose of creating disorder.

In countries which frequently witness a government turnover when a handful of revolutionaries seize the national palace, the encounter between the bonus veterans and Federal troops may be misinterpreted.

Lamentable as it was that such measures were necessary to end an utterly unwarranted and un-American attempt to force special legislative favors, it never for a moment was the least threat to the stability of Government.

This situation is perfectly well understood among Americans whose ingrained democracy never considers an administrative change except through the orderly process of elections.

The bonus riot should serve to stigmatize the efforts of a few demagogic politicians in Congress whose encouragement was responsible for the utterly unwarranted and futile congregation in the Capital.

It is evident now that the reaction to the preposterous demands for further veteran raids on the Treasury and the impudent methods employed to reinforce them by pressure from a bonus army, will be most unfavorable to veterans' legislation and undoubtedly will result in a nation-wide demand for a revision of laws that distribute hundreds of millions annually to men who suffered no injury in war service.

LONG-DISTANCE WEATHER.

A special bureau created by the Prussian ministry of agriculture in Frankfort to study the possibilities of long-distance weather forcasting, will, according to the London Times, in the coming year, make public its first attempts along that line. Forecasts for ten days will be made in July and August for north Germany west of the Oder and for south Germany. Seven such forecasts were made last summer privately for a small number of university professors and meteorologists, and it is asserted that every one of them was correct.

SCARLET FEVER.

There's a warning sign tacked over the door,
For a little girl lies ill in bed
With a flaky skin that is fiery red,
Who must stay in her room for four weeks more.

The doctor comes and she begs to play,
But he shakes his head and says:
"Not now!
That is something we can't allow,
There's a rigid law which we must obey."

"But the grass is green and the skies are blue,
And the summer posies are all in bloom.
It is hard to be shut in a narrow room
When out in the world there's so much to do.

"And the children come to my garden swing,
And sometimes high in the trees they climb,
But four weeks seem such a long, long time
When the sun is warm and the song birds sing."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: I told you about that youngster's misfortune because I thought you would feel sorry for him. Instead of that, you seemed to think he deserved boiling in oil or something because he did wrong in the first place.

Perhaps you were right in this particular case, but judgments of that kind are typical of your age and you must watch your step to avoid overdoing it.

If some defect in your vision made people seem smaller than they really are, you would make allowance for it, wouldn't you? Well, youth does something of that kind, too, and you must make allowance for it if you would avoid the vice of intolerance.

Self-righteous age is intolerant because its heart is hard and its mind narrow. Youth is intolerant by nature.

Owen D. Young taught stubborn statesmen the art of compromising, yet he confesses that in his college days he delivered a speech beginning: "I hate compromise!"

It is the nature of youth to be like that, and science explains it this way.

The development of each individual, from infancy to maturity, repeats the history of the race.

The infant must learn to walk, as the race did. Like primitive man, it has no aversion to dirt. Like the primitive, also, it takes what it wants.

As the child develops, it learns the art of speech as early men learned it, and later it learns about property rights and ethics as they did.

Fair play and sportsmanship developed as the race neared its present maturity, and youth must outgrow selfish childhood before it develops a capacity for these qualities.

Last of all came compassion and kindly tolerance. The young race had no knowledge of these things. They are the ripened fruit of wisdom—the harvest of the mellowing years.

Youth must learn tolerance as the race did. The hungry thief seems more deserving of mercy if you have known hunger.

I don't want you to be a sentimental sap, shedding tears for the jailed racketeer and embroidering cushions for the boy killer. You can't pet a rattlesnake, and your kindness can't change the odor of a skunk.

But I do want you to be tolerant in your judgments. Life is a handicap race. Make allowance for the weight carried. Keep the primitive in you subdued until you outgrow it. Love,

DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Troublemakers at Washington.

New York Herald Tribune.

It is too bad that mob violence should mar the record of the former service men and the police in Washington. But it would be easy to exaggerate the importance of what happened. The fighters among the former service men were few in number and seem plainly to have come from the small minority of troublemakers who have been active from the start. Whether these men are really Communists or not is immaterial; they are agitators, and their object is to foment trouble and make headlines. Their assault upon the police—who bore the attack with courage and restraint—was utterly unjustified.

With the orderly veterans in Washington generally the country is glad to sympathize, on the ground that they are loyal but misguided citizens—misled first by the politicians and second by their leaders. With their cause, however, there is not a shred of sympathy left anywhere. The voters have reacted rudely and sharply against every handout not based on injury actually incurred in service of the country. The sooner the former service men left in Washington realize this fact, the better. Such violence as occurred yesterday will only strengthen an opposition already final and determined.

Mostly Sound.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

So far, as we can see, "immediate modification" is much like hollering into an empty rain barrel.

Sounds Better Now.

Redfield (S. Dak.) Journal-Observer.

Isn't it strange how much better the name Roosevelt sounds to the Democrats than it did a few years ago when the real article was in politics?

Time to End It.

New York Times.

What had long been feared has now come to pass in Washington. The "Bonus Army," after weeks of defying decency, has broken out into violent defiance of the law and the public authorities. Its settling down at the Capital was from the first a scandal. Today it has become a national reproach and even danger. With rioting in the streets of Washington by veterans so inflamed and bloody that the police could not keep order, the President could do no other than call upon the Army to take the situation in hand. Mr. Hoover's statement of his reasons for this action is convincing. As he says, some of the veterans have resorted to "violence which no government can tolerate." The misguided men have refused to listen to persuasion. Now they must submit to compulsion.

Violate Platform.

Chicago Tribune.

Twenty-four Democratic senators, who could have had the aid of fourteen Republicans and eleven Democrats to make the "immediate" in the Democratic beer resolution mean immediate, bolted from the scene of an easy triumph for their party pledge. It isn't often that a party is called upon to repudiate its pledges so soon after they have been made. The Chicago convention of the party had barely written its promise into the record when the Democratic senators nullified it. The thing is a scandal.

White House Goat Farm.

With Congress appropriating $17,000 less than needed for upkeep of the White House grounds, President Hoover may be compelled to turn loose on the lawns the large collection of goats he has accumulated during the session.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Barnes Expatiates Upon Gov. Roosevelt's Color and Speaker Garner's Caution.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. George Dawson Heath 3d and his frightful spasm in re The Post's statements as to the alleged "colorless" condition of the Democratic candidate for President is most amusing. One is, however, inclined to suspect the gentleman from Charlottesville of being color blind to a remarkable degree.

"All I know is what I read in the papers." I wonder does Mr. Heath read "em? If so he has evidently overlooked several columns of bitter attacks on Gov. Roosevelt uttered by such stalwart Democrats and leaders of the party as Mayor Hague, of New Jersey, and several others.

A careful reading of these articles published widely in all the newspapers about the time of the Democratic convention might change his point of view. From them one gains the idea that Mr. Roosevelt's chief color scheme was at least a very pale blue.

As for the terrible tariff which has caused all our troubles, according to Mr. Heath 3d, what about the only tariff measure passed by the recent Democratic Congress? Four items, coal, oil, copper and lumber, were placed on the list of protected articles by Democratic senators and congressmen from Democratic States who plead most earnestly that without such protection these industries would be totally wrecked. It was no "tariff for revenue only," but an out and out high protective measure. No Republican ever argued more fervently in favor of a tariff than did the Democratic senators and representatives from the copper, oil and lumber States.

The "November doom" which Mr. Heath so cheerfully predicts seems to have been anticipated and somewhat discounted by at least one ardent Democrat. I allude to the "Lone Fisherman of Uvalde" who, like a good campaigner, plays safe with two strings to his bow. He runs for Vice President on the presidential ticket and for congressman on the State ticket. Brother Garner is out for a job, and is taking no chances on a slip-up.

WILL C. BARNES.

Favors Five-Day Week So That the Unemployed Will Be Able to Take Care of Themselves.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why people who have the job of deciding for all employes as to how their furloughs are to be taken don't follow the Secretary of Labor in his five-day week is beyond me. They lack vision for the future, as well as the present.

It must be realized that unless shorter working hours are put into effect permanently, all of us will have to take reductions in salaries for years to come and perhaps loss of our jobs. The Government should lead the way for packing plants, chain stores, &c., which have cut salaries below a living wage without shortening hours.

If shorter hours do not come, those who have jobs with passable salaries will find them going mostly to taxes and the upkeep of those who do not have jobs. I would far rather have part of my salary with shorter working hours, and thus give those who don't have a job a chance to get one and to take their share of the support of themselves and their Government. Without shorter working days we will lose in one way or another. Why not admit the fact, instead of closing our eyes?

I can't afford a pay cut any more than anyone else, having taken on myself the support of relatives out of jobs, but I'm willing to struggle through, if in the end it means a shorter week and work for more people.

Says Cancellation of War Debts Will Not Help the United States—Taxpayers Would Shoulder the Burden.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Today one hears a lot about the question of war debts and the inability of our debtors to pay. Numerous solutions are being offered, and the European nations seem agreed to repay the war debts to this country only as they receive reparations from Germany. The bankers in this country advocate the abolition of the war debts in the hope that European nations would increase their imports from this country.

All proposed solutions fail to take into consideration the interest of the taxpayers in this country who must ultimately pay for the cost of the war. European nations selfishly seek to gain at the expense of the United States, and are not willing to give anything in return. Wiping away the war debts on condition that the European nations reduce armaments will not assist us out of the depression.

Birds Devour Japanese Beetles—English Sparrows Do Their Part in War on This Pest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I should like to stress publicly, if possible, at this time of assault by the all-devouring Japanese beetle, the importance of preserving bird life and of encouraging the presence of even the despised English sparrow and the starling.

The latter—and the robins, too, I think—were very assiduous in the early summer eating the grubs of these destructive insects, and I have lately seen English sparrows darting among the branches of trees that were being despoiled by the beetles and departing with these beautiful pests in their beaks.

Moreover, to prove the truth of my own observations, a professional treeman told me the other day concerning the Japanese beetle, that "the birds are beginning to like them."

Throng Welcomes Curtis On Arrival in Los Angeles

Vice President to Deliver Hoover Greeting at Formal Opening of Olympiad; Calls Bonus Hecklers of His Speech in Nevada "Cowards."

Los Angeles, July 29 (A.P.).—A crowd of 2,000 persons welcomed Vice President Charles Curtis upon his arrival here today to open the Olympic games tomorrow.

Mr. Curtis read a message from President Hoover expressing regret that he could not attend and wishing success to the international games.

The Vice President, who became aroused at heckling as he delivered a brief speech last night at Las Vegas, Nev., smilingly refused to discuss politics.

"You cowards, I'm not afraid of any of you," he shouted at Las Vegas when several of his hearers chided him about the soldiers' bonus.

Again, when a heckler cheered for Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, Mr. Curtis shot back:

"If you wait for him to be elected, you'll be an old man."

The exchange of words occasioned no disorder.

Besides formally opening the Olympiad, Mr. Curtis will present Amelia Earhart, transatlantic flier, with the Distinguished Flying Cross, and join with Gov. James Rolph, jr., in dedicating the new State building here.

He plans to depart Sunday for his home at Topeka to vote in the Kansas primary election Tuesday.

The message from President Hoover follows:

"Will you please extend my cordial greetings to all those gathered at Los Angeles for the opening of the Olympic games and also my hearty welcome to our visitors from abroad. I deeply regret that I am unable to be present, for I had looked forward with eagerness to the pleasure of seeing those wonderful sports and also to visiting my home State.

"In the years since the Olympics were held in America for the first time at St. Louis, they have grown steadily in the interest of all the nations, until today they occupy at least as great a significance in our world as the original Olympic games occupied in the ancient world, when Greece was at the height of its glory. They have become a positive force for international acquaintance and understanding and good will.

"They teach that the hardest competition may be accompanied by good humor and that rivalry may be expressed with good sportsmanship. I warmly hope that the games may be in every way successful. Especially do I send my encouragements and best wishes to our American athletes."

month for encampments in Maryland and Virginia, were reported ready to defy the postal order, in view of the McCarl decision.

One company of the Sixth Brigade, United States Marine Corps Reserves, is comprised nearly 50 per cent of Postoffice employes.

Postal clerks point out the Comptroller General has passed on the issue not once but several times since his original opinion was handed down July 8. He reiterated his finding only this week in a letter to Representative Hamilton Fish, jr. (Republican), New York.

Complaints Already Filed.

A number of complaints already have been received at the comptroller's office.

Postoffice officials are standing on the section of the economy bill which reads:

"All rights now conferred or authorized to be conferred by law upon any officer or employe to receive annual leave of absence with pay are hereby suspended during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933."

The comptroller held this suspension of rights to annual leave does not affect sick, quarantine or military leave.

Meantime, the comptroller yesterday added to the already impressive record of decisions on the economy act. An opinion to Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, further clarified the so-called married workers' clause, second only to the leave restriction in its controversial features.

Interpretation of Act.

Provision that husband or wife be first dismissed where both are employed in the Federal service, could not be construed as requiring married workers be the first selected for payless furloughs, he decided.

Recently he rendered opinion that married workers affected by the clause might be furloughed indefinitely rather than discharged.

VON PAPEN ASSAILS VERSAILLES TREATY

radio talk last Wednesday by Gen. von Schleicher.

His protest was followed by another in Paris where Premier Herriot told Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, the German Ambassador, that the speech was tactless and inopportune. The premier objected particularly to a passage which referred to the French attitude toward disarmament as hypocritical.

Meanwhile, as the campaign for next Sunday's Reichstag election went into the last day there were reports that storm troops of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party were concentrating in various parts of Germany. This occasioned some alarm despite assurances by the government that every precaution had been taken to maintain peace during and after the voting.

The reports said every trooper had been ordered to provide himself with three days' rations and the rest of his regulation marching equipment. Motor trucks in sufficient number to transport large bodies of men were said to have been planted at strategic points throughout the country.

National Socialist headquarters took cognizance of the rumors about the storm troops by issuing a statement denying any intention of using the force of that military organization in the election.

Up at Neudeck this afternoon President von Hindenburg signed an emergency decree ordering a political truce for ten days after the election. During that period all political meetings, indoor and outdoor, will be forbidden. The chancellor and his cabinet will go on a vacation.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Readers' Questions and Our Expert's Answers.

DEAR MISS PIERCE:

I want you to know how grateful I am to you for your hair bulletins. The hot oil shampoos have certainly helped me and my hair seems so much more lustrous and full of life. But I wonder whether you can help me once more. After having my hair set at the hair dresser's I have to wear my hat and it seems to disarrange the wave almost immediately. As I'm going to an evening dance soon, I'd like my hair to stay in. How? M. C. D.

M. C. D.: Ask your hairdresser to place a piece of tissue paper over your hair. You hold the front edge over the forehead and have him adjust the paper smoothly over the entire head. Then carefully put your hat on. Any paper that shows can easily be torn or cut away. The hat rubbing up and down ordinarily stretches the hair down, and even a hair net stretches, but the tissue paper doesn't. There's its advantage.

* * * *

Dear Miss Pierce: I have heard that iodine treatments are very good for dandruff, but interfere with a permanent and as I am contemplating a permanent soon please advise me. MRS. I. N.

Mrs. I. N.: A few drops of iodine added to petroleum jelly makes a splendid treatment to counteract dandruff. However, it is true that iodine treatments often interfere with the success of a permanent as the iodine forms a coating through which it is very difficult for the heat to penetrate.

Dear Miss Pierce: Will you please print in the paper a method of reducing the bust? Is lanoline used for this purpose? M. F.

M. F.: I never recommend external applications of any kind except as prescribed by a physician. The breasts are composed of delicate glands which are very easily injured. The best way to reduce or firm them is exercises. Any exercise that moves arms and shoulders is good. Swimming is particularly beneficial as the exercise in itself is helpful and the cold water (salt sea bathing especially) acts as an astringent.

* * * *

Dear Miss Pierce: I enjoy your column every night and am coming to you for help. A few lines around my mouth bother me. Also what can I do for a double chin? Mrs. R. R.

Mrs. R. R.: Smooth a good cream or oil (sweet almond oil may serve the purpose) over the lines. For the double chin pat with a good astringent and give yourself a tieup for fifteen minutes every day while reading or resting. My bulletin, "Signs of Age," contains complete information. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF JULY 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:50 p. m.

The stellar influences at work on July 30 are liable to promote confusion and doubt, unless you take a firm hold of yourself and refuse to be overanxious or skeptical. If practicable, it would be advisable to attend to routine duty, and avoid all paths that are untried and untrod.

A child born on this July 30 will be precocious, without being annoying. It promises to develop into a fruitful adult, with very clear ideas as to what it wants and a keen perception of the means needed to attain its goal. Its nature will be generous and kind.

You, if born on July 30, are excitable and quick-tempered, especially when trifles are concerned. Let the slightest thing go wrong in your scheme of things and you raise the roof—only to laugh at yourself a little later on. Unless this tendency is curbed, the habit will grow on you and your old age will be testy and crabbed. You will become a bugbear, not only to yourself, but to others.

You have, what for the sake of a better name can be called, an artistic temperament. Yet, with it all, you can be practical and sensible. You have a big heart, and anything that savors of injustice quickly arouses all your sympathy for a victim. Your impulses are generous, and you are incapable of meanness or unkindness.

If a woman, you scorn tattlers and gossips, and find numberless opportunities for helping those who need it. You will not arouse a passionate love, but you will engender an affectionate and an enduring attachment. As a wife, you will be the real companion of your husband; as a mother, you will always have the love and devotion of your offspring. If a man, you are qualified to fill high positions with advantage to yourself and benefit to others. The advantages and benefits would be more prolific if self-control were acquired.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PIMPLES CURED.

HERE is a letter from a young man who wants a permanent cure for blackheads.

Marriage is a permanent cure. Women rarely have pimples and babies in the same season. Men who undertake the responsibility which goes with sitting at the head of the table almost never have acne. Of course, the marriage cure sometimes fails to work with pimples as it does with other things. Like vaccination it does not always "take" and when it does it may still fail to work, for which there is also much precedent. Nevertheless, we put the marriage cure at the head of the list. It is the surest in those cases when it is otherwise feasible and desirable.

Next comes the cleanliness cure. We say a person has acne if he has many pimples. We say he has pimples if he has infected blackheads. If the grease dries up and becomes dirty in a grease gland we call it a blackhead. The man who lathers his face with soaps and then scrapes and massages the skin with a razor empties his grease glands. He has no blackheads or pimples on the areas of shave. It is not advisable to shave all of the skin of the face, nor for a woman to shave her face at all, but the whole of the shaving technique, except the use of a cutting edge, can be applied to all parts of the skin, and by women as well as by men.

For those who do not care to empty the grease glands by the above methods, the use of Turkish baths, steam face baths and massage will accomplish much the same purpose. Some dissolve the grease on and in the skin of the face with alcohol and some with chloroform, or solvents of that class.

Perhaps radiation should be ranked next. In some cases it is quite helpful, but it is dangerous. None but the experienced should use it and even then there will be a bad result every little while.

Perhaps diet should come next in order. The diets that we are commonly warned against are those rich in desserts, sweets, sugars and candies. Another group warns us against eating freely of the heating foods. By this they mean fats and greases of both animal and vegetable origin, and meats. We are also warned against spices, condiments and alcoholic beverages.

At the present time much research work is being done on the body sugars—those of the blood and of the cells; on the fat in the blood, and fat and near fat in cells; and on the proteid or albumin part of the cells. When all these points are cleared we can form opinions that we can defend as to dieting for pimples.

As matters now stand all we can say is that simple meals, not heavy in fats, meats nor sweets, not highly seasoned, and not eaten in excess, seem advisable for those troubled with pimples.

I expect medicines come last. These include yeast and drugs taken internally, and various remedies applied locally.

WHY DO ANYTHING?

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Special underwear for the housewife house dress! (Designed by Dah-ray.)

New York, July 30.—"Tins, tins, tins!"

Yes, and more tins, alors! That is s'posed to be funny, dahr-lin, but seeing as how you probably don't know how funny it is, let's go to the business in hand—no slam, no slam!

Well, since your feelin's are a bitty-witty hurt, I'll just have to explain. That the expression, "Tiens, tiens, tiens!" in French, which means anything from fury to mild surprise, is pronounced "Tee-ens." But it is screamingly funny to hear a person only slightly versed in pronunciation, say "tins." Least, it is to me.

'N' tins seemed to me to be particularly appropriate to the kind of underwear you wear under your house dresses. 'N'if you ask me why—!!!

'Tis the underwear worn under house dresses that we talk about today (well, let me get started, then!) You and you and you—who do your own housework, I mean really work at it, know how discouraging it is to find that the fragile straps of our one and only georgette teddies give up at a long reach—or that the lace of our specially favorite stepins gets kneeled on and torn while we are exercising with the floor mop. And we know that any old kind of lingerie won't make us happy, either. It always seems to me that it's bad enough to have to do things that we don't like without further lowering our spirits by wearing hateful and practical things in which to do the things we don't like to do—halt!

No need to, either.

At least, not when a few cents and a few minutes' time make it possible for us to wear something quite as practical and far less distasteful.

Such as the lingerie I sketched for you today, my deahs. 'Darling undies made from the same material that make your house dresses, and in practical designs, too. You can wear these designs for your housework or for sportswear, in fact, anywhere. Because I have selected lingerie designs for you that do not disguise their practicability 'neath ugliness.

* * * *

'Course, if you do like our selection for Miladi Housewife, all you have to do is to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it—and make some for yourself! They cost so little to make these days—in adorable ginghams and cotton materials that are ideal to work in. And they are so very practical, saving your good lingerie, oh, ever so often. Better send that envelope for the instructions for making them before you up and forget it!

THE BEAUTY SORCERESS.

"Hands that have touched dishwater shall never be kissed by mine lips!" shuddered the Artistic Male. (Who can blame him?)

"Oh, yeah?" chortled the Beauty Sorceress, in most un-divinity-like language.

So she took a couple of lemons, squeezed the juice into—well, an empty bottle, and placed it on the sink.

And Perriwinkle espied it there, as she dried her hands on a tearful towel.

So she laved her hands in it, positively laved, my deah! And the point of it is that, all unsuspecting, the Artistic Male kissed and kissed her hands, never knowing that they were the very same hands that had washed his daggon breakfast dishes!

Au revoir.

THE FAVORS OF FATE.

WHATEVER else Mr. H. H. Humphery, of Sydney, New South Wales, may do in the course of his playing Contract, he will never again rail against the luck of the cards, after his experience in a recent rubber. As Mr. Humphery tells the story, he strolled into the club the other day for a game, and the first hand he picked up was the South hand pictured below. When the deal was completed, Mr. Humphery, looking at his perfect Yarborough, hoped his partner could bid to prevent what he feared might be an impending Slam. He brightened a little when he heard North bid two clubs, as, while any game contract with his cards appeared hopeless, unless North held "the deck," certainly a hand strong enough for an Opening Forcing bid of two at least guaranteed the partnership against loss of the game.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 7 ♡ A K 10 ◇ A K J ♣ K J 10 2
♠ K ♡ Q J 9 5 ◇ Q 7 4 3 ♣ Q 7 6 5	W E S	♠ J 10 9 8 2 ♡ 8 3 2 ◇ 10 9 8 ♣ A 9
	♠ 6 5 4 3 ♡ 7 6 4 ◇ 6 5 2 ♣ 8 4 3

The Bidding.

South	West	North	East
		2♣	Pass
2NT	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

"It just goes to show the luck of card distribution!" Mr. Humphery writes.

West opened the Queen of hearts, which was won in the Dummy. Even with Dummy's magnificent holding of 6½ honor-tricks, the hand looked very hopeless. However, there was a chance that the cards might be so distributed that South's highest card, the club 8, would become an entry. There was nothing to be lost by trying, so the club Knave was led from Dummy. East played the 9, South the 3, and West won with the Queen.

The drop of the 9 made things look much brighter. Perhaps the 8 of clubs would win a trick. In any event, it assured at least 2 tricks in the club suit, and assured South that he could not be penalized more than 100 points. West, in the lead, unwilling to continue the hearts and unable to lead spades, now shifted to a diamond, and the diamond finesse held. The next play was the club King, which was won by East with the Ace, and Mr. Humphery found himself not only completing his contract, but scoring an overtrick, as the 8 of clubs and two clubs.

A most happy outcome, but there permitted a second finesse in the heart suit, and West's singleton King of spades was captured by the Ace. Thus, the only losers were one spade is a well-founded superstition that a rabbit's foot is lucky, and Australia is a land of many rabbits.

Today's Pointer.

No matter how hopeless a hand may appear, a player should do the best with the cards he holds. Frequently, the luck of the distribution will result in the making of what appears to be an entirely unmakable contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ 10 6 ♡ J 7 4 ◇ A K Q J 10 2 ♣ Q 10
♠ K 8 5 ♡ K 10 6 2 ◇ 9 5 ♣ 8 6 4 3	W E S	♠ 7 4 2 ♡ 9 8 3 ◇ 8 7 6 3 ♣ J 9 5
	♠ A Q J 9 3 ♡ A Q 5 ◇ 4 ♣ A K 7 2

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

POSTCARDS and letters are arriving from grateful radio listeners from all parts of the United States in advance of the birthday tomorrow of Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the United States Marine Band, founder of the now famous "Shut-in" hour heard every Friday morning.

It is a tribute not only to Capt. Branson but to the members of the renowned band who have cooperated with him in granting requests for favorite selections, and to Arthur Godfrey, announcer, who himself was a shut-in for many months following an automobile accident, and who also has been a great factor in the success of the "Shut-in" hour.

"Please excuse my not dotting the 'i's' or crossing the 't's,'" one letter read, "because I am blind." In fact, many of those heard from are blind and others have not left their beds in years.

Capt. Branson is 51 years old, a Washingtonian by birth, enlisted in the United States Marine Band as musician in 1898, and has been its leader for the past five years

IT is quite apparent that there is a deadlock of the negotiations which committees representing the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and the National Association of Broadcasters have been holding since last spring. The controversy began last April when the composers informed the broadcasters that, beginning June 1, the license fees for use of copyrighted music would be 5 per cent of the gross income of the stations. This rate, it was estimated, would have produced an income for the American Society of Composers of about $3,500,000, as against the $1,000,000 in fees collected last year.

The broadcasters declared that they could not afford to pay the increased license fees and the society stood its ground, refusing to take less. The effective date of the new license fee was moved forward to September 1 after this disagreement. The impasse will not result in a boycott of copyright music.

"There is absolutely no thought of depriving the American public of the opportunity of hearing copyrighted music from radio stations," said E. C. Mills, general manager of the American Society of Composers.

"In these circumstances, we desire now to advise you of our intention to proceed within the next few days to the making of the license of the society available to broadcasters individually upon such terms as may be mutually agreed upon in each individual case."

GOV. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT'S first address to the nation since his acceptance of the Democratic nomination for the Presidency will be delivered over WRC at 8 o'clock tonight. The subject of his address will be "Explaining the Democratic Platform."

Returning to the Lewisohn Stadium for his fifth consecutive season, Albert Coates, Anglo-Russian conductor, will offer an all-Wagner program during his first broadcast of the summer (WMAL, 7:30 to 9 p. m.). Coates will replace Willem van Hoogstraten as conductor of the orchestra of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society during the remainder of the stadium concerts.

Selections from the works of Wagner to be played will be the Overture to "Tannhauser," the Siegfried Idyll, Siegfried's Journey to the Rhine, the Ride of the Valkyries and the Prelude to Act III of "Lohengrin."

Senator L. J. Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, and a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, will be the principal speaker during the broadcast of the Farm Forum at 1:30 o'clock over WRC. Senator Dickinson will reply to a nonpartisan analysis of the platforms and candidates of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties given the previous week by John Simpson, president of the Farmers Educational Cooperative Union.

An application for a new experimental visual broadcasting station which would make tests in transmitting television images in color, was recommended for granting in an examiner's report made public last week by the Federal Radio Commission.

The applicant, the Sparks-Withington Co., Jackson, Mich., proposes to carry on a series of experiments between a television station and an experimental station which will broadcast sound signals simultaneously with the visual images. It was brought out at the hearings on the case June 8 that engineers of the company have developed a method of scanning by which images are transmitted by wire using only half the usual frequency band width required for visual broadcasts. Leland S. Bisbee and James O'Donnell Moran appeared on behalf of the Sparks-Withington Co.

HOWARD BARLOW, leader of the symphony orchestra heard nightly over WMAL, is spending two weeks on his Westchester farm. In the first 26 weeks of this year he conducted 150 radio programs and, with the exception of the theme melody, did not repeat a single classic selection.

VINES' DEFEAT BY BOROTRA DIMS U. S. CUP HOPES

105,000 to See Curtis Open Olympic Ceremonies Today

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

TWO THOUSAND athletes are gathered for the Olympic games today under the direction of 400 officials, not counting A. A. U. committeemen, which if included would make the ratio two officials to each contestant.

Vice President Curtis will open the ceremonies with a sixteen-word speech which will be understood by exactly three squads among the 42 competing nations. But the applause will be intelligible to all.

The first competitive event on the schedule will be the weight-lifting trials, which are reckoned as the least dangerous to faint-hearted fans.

The Olympics are supposed to promote international amity and good will, but they missed the mark even before the games started, what with Finland threatening to withdraw its entire teams in retaliation for the barring of Paavo Nurmi.

With the games already a sell-out, the barring of Nurmi was not a difficult decision to make. If the Olympic show threatened to play to empty stands, this department doubts seriously whether a drawing card of Nurmi's caliber would have been rejected.

The British are regarded as the mystery team of the Olympics. The Britishers' times never compare with the American times, but somehow the Englishmen have developed a habit of winning the shorter races from America's world record-breakers. They did it in the last two Olympics.

And speaking of baseball, the Nats this morning are leading the league in team batting with the imposing average of .300, topping the second-place Cleveland club, which has a percentage of .291. But the Phillies led the National League in hitting for years and finished in the cellar.

Heinie Manush has gained 15 points on Jimmy Foxx in the last week and with a mark of .347 is now only 13 points behind the Athletics' slugger, who is preoccupied with breaking Babe Ruth's home run record.

The Yankees' lead again was cut to 7½ games when they lost to Cleveland yesterday, and the old tradition about the club leading the league on July 4 is the club that will win the pennant is wobbling a bit.

The National League race, which a week ago was a grand free-for-all, is now beginning to resemble the American League campaign with the Pirates having forged ahead to a six-game lead with the third-place club ten games behind.

They brought Jean Borotra out of retirement to beat Ellsworth Vines in the Davis Cup singles yesterday, and with Cochet also disposing of Allison America has about as much chance of bringing the Davis Cup home as Afghanistan has of winning the Olympics.

Squads of 42 Nations to Parade

Vice President to Proclaim Start in 16 Words.

First Track Events Are Scheduled for Tomorrow.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, July 29 (A.P.).—Vice President Charles Curtis lent the official dignity of the United States to the games of the tenth Olympiad today, arriving here to proclaim the opening of the international classic tomorrow.

He dismissed all talk of politics with a gesture and immediately launched into the spirit of the world-wide sports carnival which will take the spotlight with the opening ceremony on the packed Olympic stadium before 105,000 persons.

The big competitive show will start Sunday, for only the weight-lifting preliminaries are on the schedule with the opening ceremonies tomorrow.

A 2,000-piece band will play the national anthem, joined by a choir of 1,000 voices, as the Vice President appears in the huge concert bowl escorted by Count Henri de Baillet-Latour, president of the International Olympic Federation, and William May Garland, president of the tenth Olympiad committee.

Parade of Nations To Follow.

Then follows the grand parade of the nations with 2,000 of the world's finest athletes passing in review in their multicolored uniforms. Mr. Curtis will be introduced to the vast assembly by Mr. Garland as they stand in the tribune of honor.

In one hushed minute he will speak sixteen words in behalf of President Herbert Hoover:

"I proclaim open the Olympic games of Los Angeles, celebrating the tenth Olympiad of the modern era."

And thus, the international classic, a renewal of the Greek games of old, will officially start. A fanfare from trumpeters in the peristyle will answer his words. The Olympic salute from ten cannon will echo and resound through the great bowl.

The Olympic torch atop the peristyle will be lighted as the choir chants the Olympic hymn. The official banner of the games will be hoisted to the top of the mast, as 2,000 doves burst forth from the entrance archway of the stadium.

Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, will deliver the dedication address and pronounce the benediction, after which Lieut. George C. Calnan, U. S. N., representing the United States in his fourth Olympic games, will take the oath of the international games in behalf of the athletes of the world.

The ceremony will be staged in a flag-bedecked setting, with 42 nations of the world represented in the parade.

Finns Fail to Get Nurmi Hearing.

Today's preliminary activities were marked by the attempt and failure of the Finnish federation to get a hearing on the floor of the International Amateur Athletic Congress on the rejection of the entry of Paavo Nurmi, greatest distance runner the world has ever known. The flying Finn's entry was turned down at a meeting of the council of the I. A. F. late yesterday in a swift move headed by J. S. Edstrom, of Sweden, president of the organization.

The federation also wrote 30 new world's records and 3 marks equaling world's records into its archives today.

Finnish Public Protests, Seeks Team's Withdrawal

Helsingfors, Finland, July 30 (U.P.).—Public indignation against the barring of Finland's great runner, Paavo Nurmi, from the Olympic games mounted tonight when a public protest meeting decided to urge the Finnish team to withdraw from the competition.

The meeting voted to send a telegram to the Finnish team at Los Angeles, saying: "Nurmi or nobody. Welcome back."

Tilden-Barnes Retain Pro Doubles Net Title

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden 2d, of Philadelphia, and Bruce Barnes, of Texas, kept the national professional doubles tennis championship in America today by routing Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia and Albert Burke, France, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—3. Tilden and Barnes dominated the play.

Tilden meets Kozeluh with Hans Nusslein, of Germany, challenging his teacher, Roman Najuch, in the semi-finals of the singles championship tomorrow. The finals will be played Sunday.

GIANTS LOSE AS PIRATES RALLY, 4-3

Harris Credited With Third Victory of Current Series.

NEW YORK, July 29 (A.P.).—After being held to three hits in seven innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for four runs off Adolfo Luque in the eighth and defeated the Giants, 4 to 3, today.

It was their sixth straight victory after losing the first game of the series and the third triumph for Bill Harris, who hurled most of the route for the Bucs.

Garibaldi-Brunowicz Meet in Mat Feature

Gino Garibaldi, latest of the favorite sons of local rassling, meets Frank Brunowicz at Griffith Stadium next Thursday night. The match shares the top run of Promoter Turner's weekly matfest along with a grapple between Lew Plummer and Jim McMillen.

Plummer and McMillen went to a 30-minute draw here two weeks ago. On the only occasion upon which Garibaldi and Brunowicz have met, in Cleveland six months ago, both were defaulted by rough tactics.

Nats Triumph, 10-6, Over Browns

Thomas Weathers 4-Run Uprising in Ninth Inning.

Nats' 16 Hits Rout Hebert and Fischer Early in Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—Alphonse Thomas weathered a four-run storm in the ninth inning and the Nationals earned an even break in the four-game series with the Browns here today, amassing 16 hits off three St. Louis pitchers, two southpaws and a right-hander, for a 10-to-6 victory.

The Brownies batted around in the final session, mixing up four hits, a double and three singles, with a pair of free tickets, and had four runs in before a man was out, necessitating a few minutes of bull pen work for Firpo Marberry before Thomas regained his control and retired the side.

All Nats But Judge Hit Safely.

Every man on the Washington team, with the exception of Joe Judge, who played only two innings before a charley horse cut him down, registered safe hits and Myer and Cronin came up with three each, including a pair of doubles. Manush, West and Kingdon collected a brace apiece, while the longest hit of the day was a triple by Dave Harris. Judge drew passes in his only two times at bat before pulling a Charley horse and giving way to Kuhel.

The Browns garnered ten safeties off Thomas and four of them came in the ninth inning rally, whereas until the fifth they had collected but two blows, both fruitless singles.

The outcome was never in doubt until the ninth, and even then the Nationals had an eight-run advantage, which the Browns or any other team, could hardly expect to overcome.

The men of Johnson took a great liking to Killifer's starting hurler, young Wallace Hebert, who shoots them from the left side, and routed him with a pass and three straight singles in the first inning, which were good for the first pair of markers. Hebert was relieved by Carl Fischer, a former Washington southpaw, and he lasted until the fourth, but fared rather badly, being found for six hits and four runs in that period. Killefer wheeled in big Chad Kimsey with two men on, and one out in the fourth and he finished the game, allowing seven hits and four runs.

Judge Coaxes Pair of Passes.

Judge drew a pass to open the game, went to third on a single by Myer and scored on an ace by Manush. Cronin then scored Myer with a single. In the second inning, Kingdon led off with a single. Judge drew his second pass. Myer doubled to right-center and Kingdon scored, but Judge pulled up lame at third, after which Manush struck out.

Two more runs came in the third on a pass to Cronin, a triple by Harris and a single by West. Then in the fourth Kuhel, who took Judge's place at first, doubled, was sacrificed to third by Myer, and scored on a fielder's choice. That ended Washington's scoring until the seventh, when three runs came across on a double by Cronin, Harris' sacrifice, a single by West, a pass to Kingdon and a single by Thomas. The last Washington run was counted in the eighth on a double by Myer and a single by Manush.

Thomas eased up in the ninth and the Browns took advantage of him. Levey and Pinch Hitter Johnny Schulte singling as a starter. Then Sharein doubled to score Levey. Burns was passed, and when Campbell also walked Schulte was forced over the plate. George Fischer, the former Cardinal, dropped a single in left to score Sharein and Burns, but Fred Schulte forced him at second and Grimes and Bengough were out on easy flies.

The Nationals left immediately after the game for Chicago, where they open a four-game series tomorrow with the seventh place White Sox. Lloyd Brown is expected to hurl for the Nats.

Sonnenberg-Bartush In Bolling Mat Feature

Generally credited with turning the occupation of bone bending and ear scrambling into one of the Nation's leading sports industries, Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth gridman and former world's rassling champion, meet Billy Bartush at Bolling Field next Tuesday night.

Long a spearhead in the wrestling renaissance, Sonnenberg has been improving his lie of late, having scored victories over Sandor Szabo and Dick Shikat since Billy Sandow's interests married those of Toots Mondt.

Whitlock Adds Color To Portner Ring Card

Though somewhat clownish in his tactics, picturesque Don Whitlock, Southern welterweight, may easily steal the show Tuesday night when a boxing benefit for the Alexandria (Va.) American Legion is staged at Portner arena. Whitlock is down for six rounds with Baltimore Joe Chaney.

Headlining the show is an eight-rounder bringing together Nick Antonelli, Washington featherweight, and Jim Tramberia, Baltimore. Four-rounders offer Doug Swetman vs. Bob Portina, "Kid" Groves vs. Joe Doty, and "Young" Raspi vs. Sammy Hogan.

YANKEES BOW ON HOMER BY AVERILL

4 Runs in 7th Win, 4-3; Ruth Slams 29th Homer.

CLEVELAND, July 29 (A.P.).—One terrific wallop—Earl Averill's twenty-fifth home run of the season, brought the Indians a 4-to-3 victory over the New York Yankees today and gave them the series, three games to one. The defeat reduced the Yanks' lead to 7½ games.

For six innings, Cleveland couldn't get a run off Vernon Gomez, while the Yankees nicked Clint Brown for three hits and a 2-0 lead in the fourth. In the seventh, however, the Tribe broke loose. Bill Cissell opened with a single and Willie Kamm clouted a triple for the first run. Then with two out and two on base, Averill drove high over the right-field wall to finish a four-run rally.

The Yanks staged a one-man attempt to recover in the ninth when Babe Ruth, the first man up, hit over the same barrier for his twenty-ninth homer of the season and his third in two days.

Crawfords Beat Pilots Again, 11-6

Sweeping the three-game series, the Pittsburgh Crawfords last night at Griffith Stadium defeated the Washington Pilots, of the East-West League, 11-6. The Pilots were off to an early lead, but the Crawfords, with two down in the fifth, scored five runs.

Gisintaner was safe on a bad bounder to Hughes, Page and Williams were walked by Trent, Dixon scored Gisintaner and Page with a double to center, and Wilson clouted out a homer, scoring Williams and Dixon ahead of him. The Pilots tied the score, 6-6, in the sixth, but the Crawfords' big ninth inning put them safe in front.

The Pilots will meet the Homestead Grays in a double-header this afternoon, the first game at 1:30 o'clock. "Smoky Joe" Williams will hurl for the visitors in the opener, despite his 53 years.

BATESON AND LAWRENCE VICTORS

Keen Competition in First D. C. Swim Pentathalon.

ONALENE LAWRENCE, the outstanding figure in local swimming, and Phil Bateson, of whom much will be heard within the next couple of years, won honors for their respective sexes last night at Wardman Pool by taking first places in Washington's first pentathalon swimming event, staged by Pete Desjardins and the local A. A. U.

Showing sterling all-around form Miss Lawrence scored 23 points by taking firsts in the 60-yard free style, 60-yard breaststroke, diving and the individual medley, placing second to Lois Bates in the only other event on the program, the 60-yard backstroke. Her victory in the medley (which is a 90-yard race made up of breaststroke, backstroke and free-style swimming) was the outstanding feature of the meet. Overtaking Lois Bates with a tremendous burst of free-style speed, Miss Lawrence won by less than a foot.

Miss Bates scored 16 points and Lenore Taube 4.

Pete Desjardins, 1928 Olympic diving champion, and still regarded the greatest diver in the game, gave a breathtaking exhibition after the meet, his one and a half with a full twist bringing a tremendous ovation from a crowd of several hundred swimming enthusiasts.

Andrews' Error Helps Chisox Beat Red Sox

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox defeated Boston, 4 to 3, today for the only home team victory in the four-game series.

In a pitching duel between Sam Jones and Paul Andrews, each team was held to seven hits, but Andrews made an error in the fifth to let in one of the runs that gave the White Sox the lead.

PAPYROGRAPH SCORES SEVENTH STRAIGHT WIN AT EMPIRE

Papyrus Colt Pays 6-1 in Victory

Hangs on to Defeat Prize Day by Half Length in Drive.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 23 (A.P.).—Papyrograph, son of the English Derby winner Papyrus, further substantiated his claim of being the most consistent plater of the year here today when he scored his seventh consecutive victory and fifth of the season, the Kensico Purse, a gallop of a mile and 70 yards. Although the bearer of A. Snyder's silks was moving into a bit stronger company, he ran as gamely as in his previous efforts and paid the lucrative price of 6 to 1.

"Pappy," as he is affectionately called by racegoers who admire his honesty and courage, defeated James Butler's Prize Day by a half length in a hard drive. Washington Belle was eight lengths back in third position. Colossal, the favorite, performed poorly and finished fifth. Papyrograph's time was 1:46 flat, over a slightly dull track.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Today Asbestos is playing two long shots. The one at Latonia is praying for mud and the one in Canada may pay telephone numbers. Yesterday's horses belonged to one of the judges at Butler's track, but even fresh info turns sour in this hot weather. The code today is 1, 17, 4, 26, 7, 10, 3. The bank roll is $56.44.

ASBESTOS' BETS:

$1 first and third each Mom's Polly at Latonia and Skibo at Thistledown.

SPEED BOAT REGATTA TODAY

Fastest Motorboats in This Section in Tricity Event.

THE keen rivalry between the speed boat enthusiasts of Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis will find its most thrilling expression this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at Herald Harbor, on the Severn River, in the Tricity Regatta.

But this three-cornered rivalry may not accrue in the region of the finish lines, for many star boats from Philadelphia, Wilmington, New York, Newark and Norfolk have been entered, and may make the Washington-Baltimore-Annapolis angle a side line.

naught, which had won the Secretary rived at Herald Harbor yesterday afternoon, and plans have been worked out by the Chesapeake and Potomac Power Boat Association to make the event one of the biggest of its kind ever staged in this vicinity.

One of the fastest hydroplanes in the world, the Pep II, owned and driven by John Bramble, noted Baltimore sportsman, is entered. This boat made better than 53 miles an hour in the President's Cup Regatta last year, to win the Potomac Free-for-All Trophy, beating the Carenaught, which had won the Secretary of the Navy Trophy.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. will run special trains to the race course, leaving at Eleventh and New York avenue at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. Transfer to buses will be made at Gott, Md.

$56,000 Futurity Draws Field of 10

Crowning Glory's Absence Makes Race an Open Battle of Juveniles.

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Crowning Glory, fleet juvenile from Mrs. John Hay Whitney's stable, was withdrawn from the $56,000 Arlington Futurity tonight, leaving the race a wide-open battle, with the M. L. and A. C. Schwartz and W. R. Coe entries the favorites.

Crowning Glory, regarded as a certain winner in the closing feature of Arlington's $700,000 program tomorrow, pulled up lame in a final workout and was shipped to Saratoga.

Ten 2-year-olds were named in the overnight entries. They were Technique, Idealist, Pierre Pan, Tickory Tock, Ladyaman, Orphean, Puchero, Swivel, Pomponious and Trace Call. Ladysman, Orphean and Pomponious were the Coe entries, with Idealist and Tickory Tock sporting the Schwartz silks.

TAKES AFTER MOTHER.

Billy Wallace, crooning boxer from Cleveland, Ohio, inherited his singing ability from his mother.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 29.

That winning streak I felt coming on didn't sink any battleships, but it produced a profitable day with Knee High at $21.68 tacked onto Sarazen II and Playdale. After the scratching, I had 12 in the money. Looks like I'll have to collar a few tomorrow. It's getaway day and I hope it will be takeaway day.

Just to keep you busy until post time here I'm going to try to clock the first three at Empire. Here 'tis: Bodkin, Contribute, Peturnal.

FIRST RACE—PERFORMANCE, I believe, can take the measure of the two-year-olds named for the opening race. This one first caught my eye in Maryland. I believe he's the makings. HELEN BAB has good races to recommend her for place ahead of FANFERN.

SECOND RACE—GRAND PRINCE is a pretty consistent fellow and I can't see that 115 pounds interfering with his speed tomorrow. FIDDLER and DON ROMIRO appear to be the ones to make the top fellow hustle.

THIRD RACE—MR. JOE has been rested and seems fit to speed home ahead of this group. TICKORY TOCK looks like the principal chaser here while ORPHEAN is dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—HIGHER may make it three straight in this. Carries only 99 pounds and has won his last two impressively. BROWN WISDOM to chase the first named home. CON AMORE for third and he may take it all.

FIFTH RACE—DIS DAT has proven his ability to go the Hertz mile and I see him scoring ahead of ETCETERA tomorrow. SWEEPING LIGHT is third best, I believe.

SIXTH RACE—TECHNIQUE is no Man O'War but he will have to be beaten before this purse is tucked away. LADYSMAN'S last was the well known beaut and a repeater will be embarrassing to the top one. PUCHERO is better than the others.

SEVENTH RACE—STOCK MARKET, LITTLE AMERICA and ROYAL RUFFIAN. That's the way I'm placing them in this. The first named carries weight well and I make no excuses if he misses. ROYAL RUFFIAN drops down several pegs and should after those miserable races.

EIGHTH RACE—If they elect to send him back, KNEE HIGH should make it two in as many days in the finale. Only 100 pounds this time. HYANNISPORT and WORTHINGTON to battle it out for the place.

Stocks Advance as Trading Slows to 2,101,874 Shares

Profit-Taking Is Weathered in Firming of Prices; Rails Active.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Although trading was less active and net average gains narrower, bulls still had the better of the argument in today's stock market.

Shares met profit-taking particularly in the morning, only to encounter enough new buying to resume their rise. Stocks looked strongest in the rail division, although utilities also ran well. Several specialties received fresh inspiration. The average advance was just a point. Volume totaled 2,101,874 shares.

New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Delaware & Hudson climbed from nearly 2 to more than 3 points, while Norfolk & Western rose 6½. U. S. Steel preferred seemed more eager to anticipate a possible improvement in earnings than unfavorable action on its dividend next October, advancing nearly 4 points at the best.

American Telephone finished up 2¼ at 89¼, its top price, which compared with the recent low of 70¼.

Mercantile Reviews reported an increase in optimism, although Bradstreet's said it did not appear to have been translated into "any real increase of activity." Stronger sentiment, the agency asserted, seemed based partially "on the general feeling that with no disasters in sight the stage is being set for recovery," and also on a feeling that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation assistance, as enlarged, would soon make itself actively felt. Dun's said almost all branches of commercial endeavor had been encouraged.

Bonds.

Curb.

Trading followed the big board in wide gains of 1 to 10 points. The day's sales totaled 240,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values slumped ¼ to 1 cent per bushel as buyers became shy. Corn and oats joined the decline.

Cotton.

Prices gained 2 to 6 points as the market became less active. Octobers closed at 5.95. Europe bought at Liverpool.

BOND RISE PERSISTS AFTER HALTING STEP

Slow-Up Fails as Scarcity of Offerings Forces Upturn; Rails in Lead.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The bond market slowed down momentarily for a breathing spell today, but soon resumed the steady climb from which it has not deviated throughout the present month.

Prices followed an irregular trend during the greater part of the session. Attemps to negotiate lower bids, however, ran up against a scarcity of offerings, with the result that higher quotations began to appear in all categories.

The railroads again jumped into the lead, with many low-priced speculative issues gaining from 1 to 3 or more points. Substantial improvement also was recorded by the higher grade loans.

The industrials were only a step behind the transportation group in popularity. Various specialties, including the oils, displayed pronounced strength.

The foreign department was spotty. Australian guaranteed 7s of 1943 slumped 7 points, following announcement that funds for the payment of interest on this issue had not been received by the trustees. British 5½s eased, as did the Australians.

United States Government loans eased a trifle, Treasury 3¼s losing more than a point at one time.

Sales volume declined under that of yesterday, the day's turnover totaling $12,656,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate bonds gained six-tenths of a point.

Curb Suspends Trader.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The New York Curb Exchange today suspended David Maltman, a private trader, for failure to meet his engagements. Maltman was admitted to membership in March, 1929.

Wall Street Sees America Leading Way in Recovery

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—The sudden reversal in flow of international capital, which is now veering to this country, is attributed largely by Wall street bankers to revival of the belief that when business recovery definitely appears the United States will lead the way.

Around the middle of June the heavy outflow of capital began to slacken. In July, when it became clear that European central banks had drawn down virtually all of their gold balances which had been placed in this country, there was a change in trend.

In the present week, the change of the tide has reached its sharpest proportions, fairly sizeable shifting of foreign balances to New York having developed.

SHEET-TUBE LOSS $231,000 GREATER

Youngstown Plant Omits Preferred Dividend for First Time.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 29 (A.P.).—Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. today reported loss of $3,268,861 for the second quarter, about $231,000 greater than the first quarter. The preferred dividend was omitted for the first time.

The second quarter loss included an extraordinary charge of $1,355,988 for "miscellaneous charges including expenses of carrying and upkeep of idle plants, mines, and other properties." Depreciation and depletion was charged off at $1,538,764.

The loss for the quarter, compared with a loss before preferred dividends in the first quarter of $3,057,736 and with net loss of $1,176,444 after all charges in the corresponding quarter of last year. The report showed a ratio of 12 to 1 in current assets as against current liabilities.

CURB REPEATS RISE WITH HEAVY TRADING

Utilities Forge to Front as Market Leader; 10-Point Gains Recorded.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Keeping step with the rising trend on the big board, curb stocks today gave another display of strength under the leadership of utilities. The day's trading, totaling about 240,000 shares, was 20,000 shares below that of Thursday, but measured by recent volume it was a decidedly active market.

Utilities forged to the front early in the session and their buoyant tone served to impart solid strength to the general market. Electric Bond & Share issues rose sharply to new high levels under heavy trading.

The specialty group recorded a large number of sharp advances topped by a 10-point jump in Babcock & Wilcox, 4 points in Great Atlantic & Pacific, 3 in Singer Manufacturing and 2 in Eureka Pipe.

Oils held their recent advances fairly well, although they were less active than in recent sessions.

UPSWING IN COTTON CUT TO FEW POINTS

Less Active Market Drops October Price to 5.95; Europe Buys.

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—Cotton was less active today, and price changes were feverish over a range of 10 to 13 points, with the close slightly higher.

Further showers in the Eastern and Central Belt States and strength in the stock market gave some support, and at one time values were up 10 to 12 points from the previous finals on local and trade buying. However, the advances seemed to bring out further selling, which resulted in reactions. The October position at one time sold at 5.90, or 1 point under the previous close, advanced to 6.03, closing at 5.95, a gain of 4 points, while the general market closed barely steady at 2 to 6 points net higher.

Reports from the textile trade were again encouraging and the consensus was that sales during the current week will show a marked improvement over the recent quiet markets. Spot cotton markets were quiet.

Liverpool cabled that the market there was influenced by continental buying, hedge selling and easier sterling, while Manchester reported increased inquiries unworkable. The Liverpool market will be closed on Saturday and Monday for a bank holiday.

Exchange Delays Paying Austrian Loan Interest

New York, July 29 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan & Co. announced today that due to foreign exchange difficulties the Austrian government had failed to make monthly interest payments due at this time on its guaranteed government loan.

Payments have not been coming in from Austria since June, it was stated, and funds received thus far are insufficient to meet the full interest due next December 1.

The trustees have received sinking fund payments under the loan contract in the past, it was said, and these will be utilized to meet sinking fund requirements for the financial year ended last May 31.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Prices on the stock exchange developed irregularity, gilt-edged securities suffering on preholiday profit taking and weaker sterling exchange. Austrian issues declined on the default in interest payments. Transatlantic issues were a bright spot and home rails benefited on dividend announcements. The closing was irregular.

Paris—Neither booming conditions in New York nor the rise in metals could change sentiment on the bourse, which was preoccupied owing to the slump in sterling and the coming German elections. Transactions were very light and price movements narrow and mostly downward. The market closed barely steady.

Berlin—Prices improved on the boerse due to the feeling that the radicals' election chances were diminishing.

WHEAT VALUE DOWN AS BUYING SLACKENS

Drop of 1 Cent Recorded, With Corn and Oats Selling Lower.

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Material setbacks in grain prices today accompanied buyers' shyness following a 3-day advance of more than 7 cents in wheat.

Lowest quotations for wheat were reached just before the close, but a fractional rally ensued at the last. Bearish factors included refusal of the Liverpool market to follow advances on this side of the Atlantic, and it was asserted European importers were holding off.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛ to 1 cent under yesterday's finish, corn, ⅜ to ⅝ off, oats at ¼ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions, 7 to 15 cents down.

Favorable weather for harvesting and threshing in the American northwest had a contributing bearish effect on wheat.

Argentine and Australian shipments were small, and prospects pointed to a decrease of stocks of wheat afloat. Fewer reports of North American spring crop deterioration were received.

Beneficial rains over almost the entire Southern half of the corn belt weakened the corn market. Oats prices were steadied by intimations of good export business in oats.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in hog values.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

AGE did not deter Edward Payson Weston when he set out to set some long-distance walking records. At 75 he walked 1,546 miles, from New York to Minneapolis, in 51 days, or an average of 30 miles a day. He walked from New York to San Francisco, 3,895 miles, in 105 days—an average of 37 miles a day, when he was 70 years old.

The Koala, a little, furry animal called the Australian teddy bear, lives on the leaves of certain varieties of eucalyptus trees. It needs no water and does not know what to do when a pan of water is set before it. If the teddy bear is interested at all he will try to chew the water, all of which falls out of his mouth. Or he may get his nose in it and draw water into his lungs. In captivity the teddy bear must be taught to swallow medicine before he can be treated for illness.

It is a fact that the red ink business has increased greatly in the last three years, and that the sale of other colors of ink has fallen off. The president of a large Eastern ink manufacturing company recently told me that his company sold 119 per cent more red ink in 1931 than it did in 1929.

One of the best estimates in American history was made by Joseph S. McCoy, of the Treasury Department, in 1901, when he figured what the United States population would be ten years from them. He missed by less than 1 per cent.

COMMISSION DENIES 3 C. & P. MOTIONS

Rate Hearings Postponed Until August 15 to Grant Defense Time.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied three motions of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and again postponed the rate hearing until August 15 to give the company time to prepare its defense.

After listening to arguments of R. A. Van Orsdel and George P. Hoover, of the telephone company's legal staff, and William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, announced that the utility's motions to dismiss the commission's exhibits on valuation and depreciation, to make a complete valuation before adjusting rate, and to grant the telephone company 60 days to prepare a defense were all denied.

When the hearing is resumed in two weeks, it will continue daily until completed, Gen. Patrick said.

Yesterday was devoted to legal arguments. Mr. Van Orsdel opened with the charge that his company had not had sufficient notice of the valuation aspect of the rate hearing and that the "ascertainment of value has no place in a rate proceeding."

"From the evidence it can be deduced that the company is not earning in excess of a fair return on the book cost of the property in service," he said.

In reply, Mr. Roberts contended that rate making is a legislative matter and need not be preceded by valuation. He also defended the authority of the commission to consider the depreciation of the telephone company's properties, although no reference to this phase was made by the utility's counsel yesterday. Previously, Mr. Van Orsdel had declared that depreciation came solely within the province of the Interstate Commerce Commission because of its relation to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Through estimates made by Thomas R. Tate, commission valuation engineer, Mr. Roberts contended that about $9,000,000 should be deducted from the $32,000,000 book cost carried by the telephone company and held to be its fair valuation.

Pepco Fights Abolition Of Sliding Rate Scale

A formal notice of an appeal from the ruling of Justice Oscar R. Luhring in District Supreme Court which abolished the sliding scale of electric rates here was served in court yesterday by attorneys for the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Attorney S. R. Bowen, for the Pepco, asked that he be permitted to have until October 10 for submitting the statement of evidence in the fight that the Public Utilities Commission began to lower electricity rates. Peoples' Counsel Richmond B. Keech and Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts will oppose the company's appeal in the higher court.

Civil Service Employe Is Honored on Retiring

On his retirement from the United States Civil Service Commission yesterday after 29 years' service, Stephen B. Clements was presented with a fishing outfit on behalf of officials and employes of the office. The presentation was made by Commissioner George R. Wales.

Mr. Clements began his Federal employment in the Philadelphia Navy Yard in 1900. A year later he came to Washington, where he was first employed by the Postoffice Department. In October, 1903, he was transferred to the Civil Service Commission.

S. A. E. Fraternity To Convene Here

1934 National Session Is Awarded Washington at Los Angeles.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, one of the largest fraternal groups in the United States, announced yesterday from their annual meeting in Los Angeles that Washington had been selected as their convention city for December, 1934. News of the convention city choice was received by the Greater National Capital committee, which has completed an extensive campaign to secure the 1934 convention. This convention is expected to bring approximately 1,000 delegates into Washington at that time.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon meeting is the second large convention coming to Washington announced this week. The International Optimists, bringing some 1,000 delegates, will hold their 1933 convention in the Nation's Capital next July.

The announcement of these two conventions bring the list secured by the Greater National Capital Committee for 1933-34 close to 100 national group meetings.

A credit and collection bureau to serve exclusively the interest of local independent retail grocers will be established, a committee representing 400 independent retail grocers announced yesterday.

The purpose of the bureau will be to protect grocers against undesireable credit customers and to promote a more effective credit service. Thomas R. Charshee, with offices in the Shoreham Building, will direct the activities of the bureau.

Advance of Farm Prices Is 5 Points in Month

A general advance of five points in the level of farm prices during the month ended July 15 was reported yesterday by the Department of Agriculture.

The improved condition was attributed to a sharp upturn in prices of hogs, cattle, eggs and cotton, and to minor advances in other commodities. The July 15 farm price index compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics stood at 57 per cent of the prewar average, the gain being the largest recorded since July, 1929.

RIOT STRIPS POLICE CREW TO FIVE MEN

Second Precinct Force Busy Answering Usual Calls; Six Suspects Taken.

With only about five men on duty at any given time, police of the Second Precinct ran into one of its busiest periods Thursday night and early yesterday.

All of the men who came on duty at the 4 o'clock and midnight shifts were hurried out for duty with the bonus clearing forces. The men who had come on at 8 o'clock in the morning worked straight through.

Besides a 15,000 crowd to contend with at the baseball park because of the wrestling match, the faithful five were called on to contend with an alleged Communist meeting which drew about 3,000 to Eleventh and U streets northwest; two shootings, several cutting scrapes, two holdups and the regular run-of-mine police routine.

That the tired crew performed its duty well is attested by the fact that three suspects were captured in the holdups and three were held in connection with the shootings.

Sergt. A. I Bullock and Private B. D Crook arrested William Booker, 19, 1239 Seventh street northwest; Charles Skeen, 18, 2218 G street northwest, and Alfred Willis, 25, 1617 Thirteenth street northwest, all colored, in connection with the robbery of Lloyd C. McClellen, of Takoma Park, and Richard Mockabee, taxi drivers. They said they arrested one of their suspects as he fled the scene of the second robbery.

William Henderson, colored, 45, of 208 D street northwest, and William Hawkins, colored, 21, of 2119 Ninth street northwest, were booked for investigation and then taken to Freedmen's Hospital after an alleged gun battle in the 2200 block of Ninth street northwest.

The other men on duty at the precinct were Capt. William Grove, who had to be downtown most of the time; Lieut. Varney, Sergt. P. L. Barnes and Sergt. B. F. McAllister.

Lamont Ban Asked On Fascists' Hymn

League for Italian Liberty Protests Its Singing in U. S. Auditorium.

The singing of "Giovanezza," hymn of the Fascist party, at a meeting next Sunday of the Italian Society of Washington in the auditorium of the Commerce Department, was protested yesterday by J. Geraci, of 1449 N street northwest, chairman of the League for Rights of Man and Friends of Italian Liberty, in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont.

"We have learned," Mr. Geraci's letter read, "that Representative Sol Bloom, chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial Committee, has obtained permission to use the Commerce Department auditorium by the Italian Ambassador for the purpose of holding a meeting in the name of the King of Italy and the Italian Society to commemorate the bicentennial of the birth of Washington and the fiftieth anni ersary of the death of Garibaldi."

Mr. Geraci declared that the singing of "Giovanezza," as scheduled on the program, was an insult to the memory of Washington and Garibaldi.

New Licenses Are Given To Dogs of White House

(Associated Press.)

The White House kennels broke out yesterday with more new license plates. C. M. Towers, collector of taxes in Washington, handed to President Hoover two bronze dog tags, brightly burnished.

One tag, bearing the figure 1, was issued for "Pat," a big German shepherd dog that roams the White House grounds. Tag No. 2 was for "Weejie," a Norwegian elkhound that is so fond of the President it follows him about, often lying at his feet as he works. Earlier tags had been sent by mail to two Norwegian elkhound puppies, "Ole" and "Olay."

Col. Welborn, now on recruiting duty at Jacksonville, Fla., retires on his own application. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, in which he won the Congressional Medal of Honor. A native of Mississippi, he makes his home at Jackson.

President Hoover wrote his signature 523 times during the last session of Congress in making effective bills and resolutions passed by the legislators. More than 300 of the measures were public bills, while 176 were so-called private bills affecting only one or two individuals. Forty-three of the measures were public resolutions.

During the session the President wielded his veto powers eight times.

"LOVE IS A RACKET." First National picturization of a novel by Rian James, adapted to the screen by Courtney Terrett, starring Douglas Fairbanks, jr., with Ann Dvorak, Frances Dee and Lee Tracy. Directed by William Wellman. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Not the truest nor yet the most shrewdly contrived of the comedy-dramas dealing with the amatory and racketeering adventures of the wise-cracking gentry who write smart columns for the daily press, this spirited screen exhibit nevertheless has pace, catchy dialogue and interesting action to its credit.

Above all else among its various assets must be rated the possession of a cast made up almost exclusively of the younger generation of the screen's best liked players who somehow manage to breathe life even into the few developments of the story, that are not especially galvanic of themselves. Foremost in this group, of course, is the junior Fairbanks, although his genial and gusty contributions to the movement of a fable that is vividly melodramatic when not pithily amusing are no more impressive than those of Ann Dvorak, Lee Tracy and Warren Hymer. Cecil Cunningham and Frances Dee may not be omitted from the first flight, either.

It is a simple tale that the celluloid unfolds. A youthful columnist falls in love with a show girl who has taken a page from the book of her Aunt Hattie, who knew all there was to know about Broadway when "George M. Cohan was a juvenile and nobody knew whether Flotodora was going to be a hit or a flop." Through her dainty manipulation of a handful of high-caliber, rubber checks, Jimmy, the columnist, becomes involved in a game of wits with a band of racketeers whose ethics have gone a little rusty. What he has to do with a murder that seems to be a suicide, how he falls out of love and in again and why he thinks "love is a racket" are plot ingredients that bear directly upon the drama's climax and are among the principal reasons why an audience sits upon the edge of its collective chair a great deal of the time.

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Lee Tracy, his newspaper pal and roommate; Ann Dvorak, the victim of unrequited love, and Frances Dee, Jimmy's counterfeit romance, all play with naturalness, enthusiasm and fine effectiveness. Warren Hymer is a hard-berled gangster with a punishing sense of humor and Miss Cunningham a biting and cynical "stage mother."

The stage program, introduced by the intensively sartorial Miss Maxine Doyle, is headlined by Little Jack Little in a cycle of ballads and humorous songs, executed at the piano with amplifiers in the purely broadcast manner. He was, as usual, roundly encored yesterday afternoon. Those veteran clowns, Kramer and Boyle, return with a new bundle of badinage, Kramer's hot hoofing and Boyle's tenor ballading for another substantial hit. Chappelle & Carlton open the bill with a unique exhibition of gymnastic skill "On the Stairway," and Rosette and Lutman, assisted by Grace and Beatrice Wylie, offer an interval of dance and song that is distinguished by frequent flashes of genuine artistry.

In addition to the Universal News, with Graham McNamee interpreting the pictured events, a Looney Tunes cartoon, "Bosko at the Beach;" a Newman Traveltalk, "When in Rome," and Anna Chang, in a song skit, "Singapore Sue," augment a splendidly balanced entertainment.

METROPOLITAN

"THE WORLD AND THE FLESH." Paramount picturization of a play by Philipp Zeska and Ernst Spitz, starring George Bancroft, with Miriam Hopkins, Alan Mowbray and George E. Stone. Directed by John Cromwell. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Out of the seething cauldron of discontent and revolution, Paramount has pulled a yarn of the Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics' days of travail, which is as aimless and jumbled cinematically as were those days historically.

Saying this, however, is not meant to level any castigation at "The World and the Flesh," for a clearer, more purposeful narrative would render less effective this story of the revolt of the Russian peasantry and laboring classes, who dared to face those ills they knew not of.

The story, shorn of its complications, revolves around the love of Kyleno, who is leading a band of mutinous sailors, and Maria Yashaya, daughter of the peasantry, whose terpsichorean artistry raised her to aristocratic levels. Captured, the two are taken to Sebastopol, but en route the revolutionists escape their shackles and take over control of the ship and return to Theodosia, stronghold of the Soviets. Maria is sentenced to death as traitor to the cause, but Kyleno contrives to save her, but to save him from dying in her stead, she returns to plead for his life. Finally, both are saved and—all's well that ends well.

George Bancroft, as the sailor, and Miriam Hopkins, as the dancer, have the principal roles, which present to both more than adequate opportunities to demonstrate their talents and "argue out" the conflicts of country and person—the world and the flesh—and to portray graphically the birth-pains of a nation. Mr. Bancroft and Miss Hopkins are ably supported by an exceptionally well chosen cast.

A release of Paramount Pictorial, featuring violin virtuoso Rubinoff, playing his own compositions; a baseball comedy, "The Loud Mouth," with Matt McHugh and "Babe" Kane, and an issue of Paramount News, with Billy Sunday "hinting" for the sustaining of the eighteenth amendment, frame the feature offering.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT IS a lamentable thing that those responsible for what have heretofore been looked upon as the most diverting of the short reels should, without warning, go haywire. Not long ago it was mentioned in this space that a cartoon comedy of a series confidently relied upon to provide amusing and innocuous enjoyment had mistaken vulgarity and coarseness for cleverness and humor. Now it appears that the gentleman—whoever he is—whose running comment is evidently intended to lend a humorous note to Walter Futter's "Curiosities" has completely confused suggestiveness and double entendre with wit. If it is John P. Medbury he is trying to emulate, he had best send the boy out for a tin of Old Dutch Cleanser.

That was a fast piece of work Pathe News pulled on the Bonus Expeditionary Fracas of Thursday afternoon and evening. The RKO-Pathe truck was out in the midst of the melee—along with all the rest of the newsreels—and shot its exposed film over to the New York laboratory in jig time. It came back by plane yesterday evening at 8:45 and was on the screen at RKO-Keith's, so Manager Hardie Meakin tells me, at 9:15 o'clock last night. It may be, of course, that all the other theaters had it at—or about—the same time, but this is the only one I happen to have heard about.

And Mr. Reed, who reviewed the Keith bill for this morning's Post, tells me that when the riot pictures came on the screen, all the audience cheers were for the United States soldiery and none for the bonus marchers—which is, it seems to me, exactly as it should be, under the circumstances.

That's a nice tribute to the gentlemen who sit on The Hill they pay in "Love Is a Racket," current at the Earle. After Frances Dee has told Doug Fairbanks, jr., who is insanely and, as it turns out, idiotically, in love with her, all about the bad checks she has loaded New York with, he turns to her in biting sarcasm and says:

"Listen, funny-face, you couldn't have got yourself into any meaner mess if you had had the whole United States Congress to help you!"

Well, it just goes to show that they've heard about it, even 'way out there on the Pacific Coast!

As far as I was able to judge yesterday, there is only one excuse for bringing Madge Bellamy back to the races in such a picture as "The White Zombie," at Loew's Fox. The eyes have it!

Next to Bela Lugosi's incandescent eyes—in the same picture—by the way, the best work is done by that resourceful and wholly reliable character actor and comedian, Joseph Cawthorne, who ought to have revived the old concertina in this one if he ever did anywhere in his life!

In case I forgot to mention it in the review—and I suspect I did—there is a swell "Flip, the Frog" cartoon comedy at the Fox that will partially mitigate the jitters induced by the sepulchral feature.

Well, things ought to begin to pick up now that the war's over, eh?

PALACE

"THE FIRST YEAR." Fox picturization of Frank Craven's play, adapted to the screen by Lynn Starling, starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, with Dudley Digges, Lelia Bennett, Robert McWade and Maude Eburne. Directed by William K. Howard. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Small-town settings, domestic squabbles, sweet sentiment a little old fashioned, and homely humor, frequently rib-tickling—well, Frank Craven wrote the play, you know.

However, one Lelia Bennett, blackface and all, happens upon the scene about two-thirds through, to turn the picture's rather consistent but mild amusement into a positive riot. There's no doubt about her stealing the show.

Only the twelfth and "climaxic" month of that hard first year is disclosed, but that is enough to reveal Mrs. Tommy Tucker (nee Grace Livingston), as a pretty disagreeable, selfish young wife, who would be hard enough to live with in any year. Our sympathy is all with Tommy, who leaves his home town and a nice business when he marries, and makes the big jump to Joplin (Mo.) and new work-a-day fields, all because the little wife has a yen to get away from mother, dad and the old homestead.

The news is that Janet Gaynor got what she wanted when she got Mrs. Tommy to play. But why? And she doesn't help any by her hopelessly coy, syrupy sweet and colorless playing.

Side-kick Charlie Farrell is much, much better as Tommy. And though he hasn't any particular chores this time, save looking harassed and acting bashful, he seems to grow a little each performance toward maturer roles.

The lovable and deft Dudley Digges, Robert McWade and Maude Eburne furnish numerous chuckles in the well done parts of Grace's uncle, father and mother, respectively.

Walter Futter's Curiosities, which could, and should have been cleaned up. "Hollywood Handicap," a Thalian production with several famous faces and not much else, and a Metrotone News complete the bill.

LOEW'S FOX

"THE WHITE ZOMBIE." United Artists' release of Edward Halperin's picturization of a story by Garnett Weston, featuring Bela Lugosi, Madge Bellamy, Joseph Cawthorn, John Harron and Robert Frazer. Directed by Victor Halperin. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Evidently aspiring to a place beside "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" as one of the most ghastly of the recent chills-and-fever dramas, this weird visualization of the superstitious horror of Haitian voodooism will strike many as being more grotesque than gripiping.

Its whole structure is founded upon the belief that human corpses through the superhuman endowments of a sort of glorified witch doctor can be resurrected, minus heart and soul, and miraculously imbued with the power of muscular, but not mental or spiritual, activity. These appalling symbols of a ghoulish triumph over death are known as zombies and are made the physical slaves of those who summon them back from eternity as walking specters upon the earth.

Beaumont, a young man living in such opulence as the little tropical island upon which the story is laid probably never knew, enlists the aid of the community's head necromancer to place in his power the bride of a young protege of whom he is overpoweringly jealous. The youth, for his part, seeks the counsel of Dr. Bruner, a missionary who has devoted 30 years of his life to the study of the natives and their fantastic beliefs. These opposing forces struggle for the reclaimed body of the "white zombie."

Such is the skeleton of the narrative. The process of its development is punctuated by such doubtful enlivements as ravaged tombs, a terrorizing procession of living cadavers, ancient and dimly lighted castles, high over the water's edge, with secret death traps and surging subterranean whirlpools, screeching and expectant vultures relentlessly tracking their living prey and always the lurking shadow of Bela Lugosi, impersonating the ominous figure of Murder.

If your hair is not turning gray rapidly enough as it is, your sleeping hours are not sufficiently harassed by nightmares and gooseflesh is a luxury to which you are not enough accustomed, this is the sort of thing you will like. A preponderant majority of yesterday afternoon's capacity audience accorded it every outward manifestation of their enthusiastic approval.

On the stage, the "Chains" revue, ranging in subject matter from slave chains to chains of precious gems, disclosed many flashes of colorful beauty, some clever dancing, a bit of agile clowning and an excellent voice or two. Gold and Raye, a pair of male "professional amateurs," scored; Frank Stever exercised a splendid barytone voice altogether too infrequently; Paul Mall sang and monologued apparently under the influence of a Ted Lewis complex, and Karels and Kay and Georgene and Henry accounted for much of the dancing.

The Fox Movietone News, a Mack Sennett comedy and Phil Lampkin's rehabilitation of the time-honored and battle-scarred "Poet and Peasant" overture complete a pretentious, if chillingly mortuary, program.

Dr. James L. Pinn to Speak.

Dr James L. Pinn, of the Good Will Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O streets norwest, will preach tomorrow morning on "A Millionaire and His Nephew or Abraham and Lot." In the evening Dr. Pinn will speak on "The Beatitudes of John."

Charging Libel, Man Asks $50,000.

Max Gratman, 1723 Columbia road, yesterday filed suit for $50,000 damages from Louis Osiel, 617 F street northwest, for alleged libel. The suit was filed in District Supreme Court by Attorney Hyman M. Goldstein.

RKO-KEITH'S

"TOM BROWN OF CULVER." Universal picturization of a story by George Green and Dale Van Every, featuring Tom Brown, H. B. Warner and "Slim" Summerville. Directed by William Wyler. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

Refreshing because it deals with the affairs of youth; attractive because it bears the flash and color of affairs military; appealing in its story of father and son love, "Tom Brown of Culver," will likely meet with general audience approval. And as presented by the RKO-Keith management with introductory shots of John Philip Sousa leading the Marine Band in "Stars and Stripes Forever" the audience is in receptive mood before the first scene is unreeled.

Briefly, it is the story of a boy, boxing for his bread, who carries with him a medal awarded posthumously to his father, supposedly killed in action. His plight brings the aid of the American Legion and he is sent to school. His father, shell shocked, into believing he deserted, returns, confesses and attempts suicide. But it all turns out the way it should. In between, there are some pretty swell shots of Culver, of boys drilling, cadets marching, legion dedicatory exercises and lots of excellent band music.

Tom Brown, in the title role of the same name, does a piece of work which ranks high among achievements of juveniles of the films and right at his heels is Richard Cromwell, his roommate. H. B. Warner is great as the father as is Slim Summerville, the lunch counter man, who "served" both father and son. Other prominent film lads, including Ben Alexander, are in the cast as Culver students and the whole job is painstakingly accurate.

Topping the auxiliary features is a series of pictures of Thursday's bonus rioting, including an effective panoramas of the destruction of Camp Marks by fire, taken by the Pathe newsreel men. A Mickey Mouse cartoon of hilarious nature, a side splitting comedy, "Giggle Water," with Edgar Kennedy, and an organlogue by Jesse Crawford complete a bill that is meritorious throughout.

COLUMBIA

"McKENNA OF THE MOUNTED." Columbia Pictures' production, starring Charles (Buck) Jones, supported by Greta Granstedt and Niles Welsh. Directed by D. Ross Lederman. Reviewed Friday night by J. F. Brady.

A story featuring the daring and bravery of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police always brings a thrill to true-blooded patriots. "McKenna of the Mounted" is no exception. It is a picture chock full of action, melodrama, gun play and galloping horses.

There is not much that is different in this new picture. It is the same old story of the daring of the Mounted Police going out and getting their man, changed around a little only in story plot.

Charles ("Buck") Jones on his beautiful white steed is still the great rider, the crack shot, the daring fellow that the boys like to holler about. He throws a hard fist which hits the mark and lays out his man, and he puts himself whole-heartedly into the character of the Mountie who allows himself to be publicly disgraced and dishonorably discharged from that famous organization in order to carry out his police plans of bringing to justice the key man of the outlaw bands. Jones does himself credit again in this picture.

Fine support is given by Greta Granstedt, as Shirley Kennedy, the sweetheart of Sergt. McKenna (Jones).

Morgan (Niles Welsh), as the ring leader of the outlaws, while posing as a reformer in the town, rides a horse well and carries through his dual character in a convincing manner.

"McKenna of the Mounted" is a picture which will appeal to the boys who dote on their hero's being chased and emerging victor with laurels hanging all over him. It will appeal to others who like straightforward melodrama where the shooting of a man is no more than tossing a piece of paper to the wind. In fact, it will appeal to all who like the Wild West as a background for a thrilling, if not too convincing, story.

Supporting the feature is an interesting Paramount Newareel, a splendid colored cartoon "Spring Song," and a short comedy, "Green Mountain Justice."

Child Hit By Auto Gets $1,200.

Four-year-old Millicent McDonnell, daughter of James McDonnell, yesterday was given a consent verdict of $1,200 in District Supreme Court. $78 Loot in Furniture Store.

Barton Ewers, manager of a furniture store at 803 D street southeast, reported that the store had been entered yesterday by thieves who used a duplicate key and that $78 was missing.

$500 or Six Months Given Weapon Seller

David Bernstein, a Seventh street second hand store operator, was sentenced yesterday to pay a fine of $500 or serve six months in jail, when he was convicted in Police Court of violating the new law restricting the sale of firearms.

He was convicted of selling a weapon to Scott Johnson, colored, bonus marcher, who was later caught with the gun, and who is now awaiting trial for carrying a concealed weapon. Bernstein said he did not know of the new law.

BANKS AND BUSINESS JOIN IN TRADE CURE

Fifth Reserve Area Group Holds Third Meeting Here; Confidence Grows.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Speedy growth of cooperation among industrial and financial executives to assist business recovery was revealed in reports considered by the Banking and Industrial Committee of the Fifth Federal Reserve District; it was announced yesterday, following the third meeting of the group at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in this city.

E. C. Graham, of this city, chairman of the committee, said it had before it reports from similar committees now functioning in the eleven other Federal Reserve Districts and from committees now functioning in the States and larger cities of this district. These reports clearly reflected the major problems to be dealt with, indicated numerous methods that had been proposed for solving them, and gave evidence of the substantial progress being made.

"It is clear," Mr. Graham said, "that the problems with which our own and the other district committees are dealing fall under three main heads: Amelioration of distress attending the depression; elimination of the fear which tends to produce paralysis of individual initiative, and determination of the most effective methods of putting funds to work, both public and private.

"There were many definite indications of a steady growth of confidence and of the willingness of all forces to combine to develop improvement of economic conditions, he added. Plans were developed for completing the organization of local committees to cooperate with the main committee in various sections of the Fifth District.

Those attending the meeting were: Mr. Graham, Robert V. Fleming, C. Michael, Roanoke, Va.; H. B. Lewis, Charleston, W. Va.; A. L. M. Wiggins, Hartsville, S. C.; W. W. Hoxton, chairman of the board, Federal Reserve Bank Richmond; John J. O'Connor, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Washington; H. G. Hoskinson, Washington, secretary of the committee.

Tests for Congress Appointees Halted.

Members Must Pay for Examinations of Cadets and Midshipmen.

Members of Congress who desire to have examinations determine their appointees to the United States Military and Naval Academies will have to conduct the competitive examinations themselves, it was learned yesterday.

The examinations, formerly conducted by the Civil Service Commission, have been discontinued, the commission announced in letters to members of both houses yesterday. Lack of funds was given as the cause of the discontinuance.

Several representatives and senators have communicated with the commission relative to holding examinations at their own expense. The commission has replied that it will be possible for them to employ furloughed civil service workers to conduct the examinations.
